President's Message

Shelly Mowinkel, NSBEA President

I am hoping that many of you can relate to this, some days the ideas just come to you, some days ideas are far and few between. This article has been one of those moments. I am not sure how many times I have sat down to start my final message as the President of NSBEA. Now here I sit, in the passenger's seat on our way to NBEA in Chicago and I am reflecting (I am sure all of you can hear my kids saying "Are we there yet?").

In my last article, I challenged you to be a crazy one and consider how you can make yourself better today than yesterday. I challenged you to be a crazy one and consider taking a leadership role in NSBEA. As I talk to other state presidents, there is one common theme, they all say, "Nebraska has a strong business education organization!" Yes, we do, and it is because of all of you! I have always known the value of being part of a professional organization, however being crazy enough to take on a leadership role, has greatly enhanced and supported me as a teacher.

Below are five areas where I believe I have greatly benefited from being a member of NSBEA.

#5. Improved Communication Skills. Yes, put me in a room full of teenagers and I quickly go "into the zone." However, when talking in a room of my colleagues and peers, I quickly become nervous. Through NSBEA, MPBEA, and NBEA I have had many opportunities to share ideas and present at various conferences. I can tell you that these opportunities have helped me get over my fear of talking to adults and have greatly enhanced both my written and verbal communication skills.

- #4. Personal Learning Network. We have invaluable amount of expertise in the Nebraska business teachers! Building a personal learning network and being able to brainstorm ideas with the some of best business teachers from Nebraska (and around the United States) has provided me invaluable insight and ideas that I can bring to my classroom.
- #3. Curriculum Ideas. Need an idea for that lesson? Members of both NSBEA and NBEA are provided with many valuable resources through the NSBEA Newsletter, Keying In, and the Business Education Forum.
- #2. Appreciation of the "Background Work". Can I just say it again, our organization is awesome! The previous leaders have laid a great foundation and I believe the future leaders can only make our organization better. There are many things that go on behind the scene and I have gained a better understanding and appreciation for what the leaders do on a daily, monthly, or even a yearly basis. All roles from the district representatives to the audit committee to the five-year planning committee to the President all have a vital role in making our organization run effectively.

#1. Mentors/Mentoring. Many of you are on my fastest fingers list of email messages, phone call, or even text messages. I know that I would not be the teacher or leader I am today without the advice and encouragement from all of you. All of you have helped shape me into the person I am today. Thank you doesn't seem enough. However, I hope that I can take every opportunity to inspire, encourage, and share my gifts with others, as you have done for me.

There are many benefits to being a member of a professional organization. However, we need YOU to help continue the rich NSBEA tradition. Angie Chittick, our NSBEA President-Elect and nominations committee are diligently working to fill multiple leadership positions, consider being crazy enough to make a difference... consider a NSBEA leadership position! Mac Anderson once said, "Great leadership usually starts with a willing heart, a positive attitude, and a desire to make a difference."

Spring Fever?

Angie Chittick, President-Elect

Have you reached that point in the semester where you are worn out and counting the days to the end of the term? If so, you are not alone. Every teacher seems to go through the spring fever phase. In fact as I am writing this article, we are just finishing our spring break. Honestly, I find it more challenging to gain the students focus and attention along with my own after spring break. Thus, as I was preparing for a challenging week ahead I found inspiration from some quotes that I discovered from Steve Jobs.

"My favorite things in life don't cost any money. It's really clear that the most precious resource we all have is time."

Think about this quote. How true is this statement? How many times have you experienced a bad day only for a student to change it around in an instant? This could be a simple smile when the student finally grasps something new or a "thank you" or the excitement that radiates. There is nothing as rewarding as seeing students learn and excel over time in the classroom.

Believe it or not, I have a college student this semester who had never turned on a computer before. Yes, there are students out there that still exist with little to no computer knowledge. This student was so scared that he was ready to drop the first day of class. In just a few short weeks it is amazing to witness the confidence of this student as he is not only becoming computer proficient but gaining the self-confidence in himself.

This example drew me towards another of Steve Job's quotes:

"Your work is going to fill a large part of your life, and the only way to be truly satisfied is to do what you believe is great work. And the only way to do great work is to love what you do. If you haven't found it yet, keep looking. Don't settle. As with all matters of the heart, you'll know when you find it."

How many times do we tell students to choose a career that they will love to do? The same is true for us as teachers. What is the old adage? If you love what you do, you will never work another day in your life? We need to love our job and remember that it can be fun. Do you enjoy learning? Then pass on the joy of learning something new to your students. Remember that you can make a difference – inspire, motivate, and engage!

Do what you love
what you do.

NBEA Conference Recap

Shelly Mowinkel, NSBEA President

The annual NBEA Conference took place at the downtown Marriot in Chicago from March 31 – April 4. Nebraska was well represented at the NBEA conference. Many Nebraskans shared their expertise through presentations, while others served as session coordinators and liaisons. Dr. Pat Arneson of Wayne State College was the program director and Sue Sydow of Wayne State College, served on the program committee. Denis Krejci of Tri County served as the scholarship program chair. Nebraskans on the registration committee were Dennis Krejci, Kelly Means, and Sue Sydow. Kelly Means served on the Policies Commission.

The awards luncheon provided to be an exciting highlight of the conference for Nebraska, as Shelly Mowinkel was recognized as the 2015 NBEA Middle School Teacher of the Year and Dennis Krejci was recognized as the 2015 NBEA Secondary Teacher of the Year. Laura Newton of Elkhorn Valley was one of two recipients of the NBEA Scholarships for continuing education.

To show the fun side of NBEA, social media made its way into the NBEA conference with a bang from the iTweet station to the “Twitter Challenge.” Our very own Mickie Mueller, of Norfolk Public Schools, received the award “Most Tweets During the Conference.”

Shelly Mowinkel, Middle School Teacher of they Year; Laura Newton, NBEA Scholarship for continuing education; Dennis Krejci, Secondary Teacher of the Year.

The following is a list of all the Nebraska attendees. Those with an asterisk were presenters.

NSBEA Proposed Amendment

Article VII, Section 1: Standing Committees: to add “M. Finance Committee”

Rationale: NSBEA needs to have consistent financial checks and balances from year to year.

Conforming amendment to Article VII, Section 7

Article VII, Section 7

To add M. Finance Committee:

“M. Finance Committee. The Finance Committee shall be composed of the members of the Auditing Committee, NSBEA President-Elect and NSBEA Treasurer. The chairperson of this committee shall be the President-Elect. The purpose of the committee is to:

1. Review, monthly, the checking and savings accounts, including balancing monthly reconciled checkbook balances.
2. Review, annually, the audit report before it is submitted to the Executive Board prior to the annual business meeting of the Association.
3. Prepare an annual budget year that will be presented by the President-Elect to the Executive Board prior to the annual business meeting of the Association.”

Rationale: The financial checks and balances mentioned above could be enhanced through this process.

Conforming amendment to Article IV, Section 5B

Article IV, Section 5B

To insert a new number “1.” Review, monthly, the checking and savings accounts transactions and monthly balance the bank statement.

Rationale: The President-elect could more easily develop a budget for the next year with this knowledge.

A LITTLE BIRDIE TOLD ME . . . ER . . . TWEETED!

Patricia Arneson, Wayne State College

NBEA placed greater emphasis on Tweeting at its national convention this year in Chicago. Although I have had a Twitter account for a few years, I had forgotten my password and not engaged much in it, as in not at all.

Well, that’s all changed. And I challenge others to ‘not be a twit like me’ to also start tweeting! Here’s my first Tweet from the national convention.

Patricia Arneson @BizProfessor - Apr 1
 NBEA convention off to a good start ! Don't be a rookie like me. Go to the Tweet desk to get going!

But this is not about me. It’s about all of the NBEA convention attendees who participated in NBEA’s challenge to see who could tweet the most during the convention. It’s also about all those who encouraged others to start tweeting and the fun we had promoting the fun and learning taking place at the NBEA convention. Here are the results!

- 603 Tweet posts
- 101 Tweepsters/users
- 470,275 reaches and over 745,000 Tweet ‘impressions’ including re-tweets

And the winner is (to no one’s surprise from Nebraska) Mickie Mueller of Norfolk Public Schools, who initiated the most Tweets!

Help Your High School Students Learn Personal Finance Skills with a FREE Online Financial Education Program

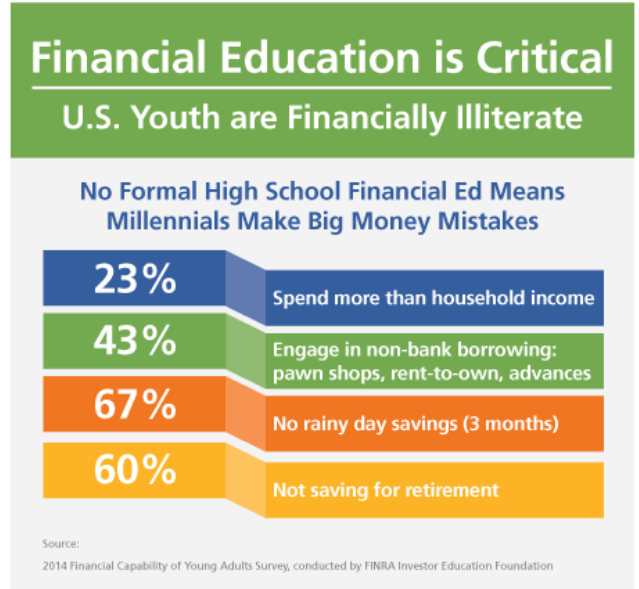

Do you want to help your students learn personal finance skills, but aren't sure where to start? We're here to help! As a nonprofit based in Lincoln, Neb., Inceptia wants to give back to schools, students and families by making Financial Avenue (www.financialavenue.org), our online financial education program, available for FREE to all high schools in our home state.

As you begin to plan your curriculum for the 2015/2016 academic year, consider implementing Financial Avenue into a personal finance class and test for proficiency or use it to supplement social studies, math, economics or career education classes.

"Today young adults graduating high school are immediately faced with a multitude of personal financial decisions; choices that may impact the rest of their lives," said Inceptia President and CEO Randy Heesacker. "We are pleased to provide these high schools this award-winning program at no cost so their students enter adult life equipped to make the best financial choices for their futures."

With content aligned to the Nebraska Social Studies Standards, the Financial Avenue program uses online videos and interactive tools to thoroughly cover financial basics from budgeting, credit cards and banking to more complex subjects like contracts, taxes and understanding insurance. For students planning to go to college, Financial Avenue will help answer their questions on paying for college, borrowing money and how to manage working while in college.

According to Jennifer Davidson, president of the Nebraska Council of Economic Education, "It is never too early for students to begin to understand the importance of financial topics. Financial decisions, especially those surrounding college decision making, will follow students for many years. It is important they fully understand their choices and the consequences of those choices. Financial Avenue provides a great platform to deliver excellent financial education in your classroom. It is an unbelievable resource and it is free to Nebraska classrooms. I highly encourage educators to check it out and consider implementation. A preview of the resource will be provided during the 2015 Personal Finance Institute."

"At Inceptia we are passionate about helping students achieve academic and financial success," said Heesacker. "High school is a great time to teach financial literacy to students before they face potential pitfalls like college loan or credit card debt. The Financial Avenue program gives high school students an opportunity to learn lifelong personal finance management skills that will benefit them well beyond graduation."

If you're not really sure how to find time to squeeze Financial Avenue into your already packed class, consider these suggestions:

Prepare students for college by moving to a flipped class format, in which students work on Financial Avenue outside of class and come back together to discuss what they've learned.

Another opportunity to involve parents/guardians: have the student complete a finance activity at home with help from their parent/guardian, like creating a monthly budget or going grocery shopping with coupons. Or have the student take their family through a financial education exercise to share their knowledge.

Students often have to write a number of papers for English that delve into expository writing or research; if possible, suggest that these paper topics be focused around financial education.

For more information, please visit <https://fa.financialavenue.org/> or contact a member of our Client Support team at 888.529.2028, ext. 6306.

A division of NSLP

About Inceptia

Inceptia, a division of National Student Loan Program (NSLP), is a nonprofit organization providing premier expertise in higher education access, student loan repayment, analytics, default prevention and financial education. Our mission is to support schools as they arm students with the knowledge needed to become financially responsible adults. Since 1986, we have helped more than two million students achieve their higher education dreams at 5,500 schools nationwide. Annually, Inceptia helps more than 156,000 students borrow wisely, resolve their delinquency issues and successfully repay their student loan obligations. Inceptia educates students on how to pay for college, guides borrowers through loan repayment counseling, and provides default prevention strategies and services to schools.

To all of you who submitted Scholarship Applications, to all NSBEA Members who informed, encouraged, reminded, and then nagged those students to apply, I wish to THANK YOU. These are wonderful scholarships and to have a nice pool to select from is heartening. The Scholarship Selection Committee will meet in April after the NBEA Conference.

Thank You

From the NSBEA Scholarship Chair—Pat Lutt

NSBEA FOUNDATION An Investment in Business Education

The NSBEA Foundation was started in the spring of 1995. This foundation is vested through the Career Education Foundation of Nebraska (CEFN). The purpose of this foundation is to give business educators an opportunity to make donations during their lifetime or through their estate to benefit business education in Nebraska. The goal of this foundation is to eventually provide scholarships to high school business education graduates to continue their education at the postsecondary level.

Through our individual planning for the future, we each have the opportunity to help strengthen business education in Nebraska in the years ahead. Please give serious consideration to your investment in business education. Help us to ensure that business education students are highly educated, well trained, and fully prepared to enter the workforce.

We need your help! Please complete the information below and return with your contribution to the CEFN office.

Questions can be directed to Delayne Havlovic or Colleen Lenners.

I want to invest in BUSINESS EDUCATION by supporting the Nebraska State Business Education Association (NSBEA) Foundation.

NBEA MEMBERSHIP REPORT—April 5, 2015

As of April 5, 2015 NBEA membership includes 177 professional members and 36 student members. Please take a moment to look over the list to see that your name has been included. If not, your membership may have expired. If you recently sent your membership directly to NBEA, please let me know so I can update my list. I do not always get a timely update. If your membership will expire soon—in January or February, please use the membership form in this newsletter on page ___ or send directly to NBEA. If you have any questions, you may contact me at condonj@mpcc.edu or 308-535-3740. Thanks.
