What's happening at the Rempps?

For a few months I've been talking about the Hoffman Process. My friend, Jon Simcoe, stated in one of his recent newsletters how important personal development was in his success and his path forward.

Well it doesn't get much more personal than what you'll learn from the Hoffman Process in one week in Caroline, Alberta! For those of you who don't know what it is, and without revealing too much, it is a spiritual retreat that lasts 7 days. Amy went in April, and she came back transformed. She is not the same person as she was before she left for that 7 day retreat.

I went in May, and while I wasn't sure if it would have as big of an impact on me as it did on Amy, I too have come back home a different person! I now have an understanding and love for myself and others that I never had before. It is pretty intense, but I would highly recommend the Hoffman Process to anybody. What you'll experience there will change your life, for the better! Our gratitude to Jennifer, Peter and Darren for introducing us to this process!

Because Life Happens - Not enough time...

Every month I post a video from LifeHappens.org, a nonprofit organization dedicated to showing people why they need to take personal financial responsibility. This month's video is about a family who's self-employed bread winner died without life insurance, leaving behind a wife, daughter and three sons to fend for themselves. Insurance is even more important for self-employed people, as there is no employer to provide it.

Giving Back to the Community

My wife Amy is a wildlife artist. Her art is a great outlet for us to donate to charities, as we believe it is important to give back. This picture is a portion of the mural Amy completed at the observation deck of the Fort McMurray International Airport. It combines metal grinding and airbrush on aluminum. We lived in Fort McMurray for close to seven years, and we are so very grateful for what this community gave us. Our plan is to create a series of paintings that we will sell to raise money for those who lost everything in the fire. You can see more of her work at amykeller.com.

The impossible happened...

You've probably seen pictures or heard of "The Beast" the fire that burned part of Fort McMurray earlier this month. 2,500 houses were destroyed and many more have probably sustained damage. Nobody could have imagined that this would ever happen! It's nearly been a month and it still seems impossible!

While we moved out of the community last November to come closer to family, we still own a house in Fort McMurray and we have several close friends who have lost everything! Just like that. Gone...

Some people knew exactly what their house insurance covers, some had a list of all the items in the house that would be claimed... while some had let their insurance lapse and now have nothing left, and no support to get back on their feet.

Now what would you say the probability of your house burning down in a fire is? What do you think those who lost their homes in the fire would have said their probability was a month ago? And yet, 2,500 families are suffering that exact loss, that impossible loss.

Let me give you one certainty: we are all going to die some day... we don't know when. It might be next week, it might be in 60 years (I want the second number). But the bottom line is that it is going to happen. So now that the importance of home insurance is pretty obvious to most people, how about your coverage for life insurance? Do you have any insurance? Do you have enough insurance? Can you afford not to? Loosing a house is one thing, loosing the main bread winner or the main caretaker is a whole different story.

Don't wait. One of the lessons of this fire is that we don't know when the impossible will happen. Contact me if you'd like more information about what insurance you have, what you think you have, or what you think you should have.

Tip of the Month

If you're in business and need to keep track of information (which probably is true for anybody in business), Evernote is a great tool for you.

I've been using that platform for a few years now. I like the fact that I can have it on all my different devices, and it gets updated automatically so I can find my notes whenever I need them. The search feature and that ability to tag the notes makes it even more efficient.

Evernote is only one of many similar programs, so I encourage you to check any of those out.

The only thing we'll never get back is time. So when you can use a tool that allows you to save time down the road, by allowing you to access information quickly and easily, it is well worth the small membership fee.

Entrepreneur of the Month

One of the characteristics of successful business owners is the ability to work with a team and to encourage each other. The majority of my clients are also business owners, so each month, I will feature one of them in this newsletter.

This month I'd like to feature Connie Clark, owner of Mission Computers Inc.

Mission Computers Inc. is celebrating its 25th anniversary this year! Quite an achievement.

Connie has been helping business owners and employees be more efficient with their time, and has developed an expertise in platforms like Maximizer (CRM), Quickbooks, Excel-Word-Outlook to name a few.
