FEATHERS IN THE WIND

Okay it's that time of year when people sort of "sneak" out of their homes looking for the elusive moral [henceforth - mushroom(s)].

When we were first married Charlemagne was so disappointed to learn that I had never found a mushroom. I had plenty of toad stools, but no mushrooms.

He figured I was joking after all I was Louis Selzer's granddaughter who was a well known hunter and conservationist. He, like other mushroom hunters would not take his granddaughter (especially ones who talked) on searches thus perhaps telling someone where this elusive fungi might be located.

Sure I grew up in Homestead, which according to Charlemagne, was were all the wildlife was. I did know some "secret" places including where fox used to be caught and have yet to show him where they are. (Love goes only so far!)

Then there was my Uncle Carl, George, and cousin Lyle who went mushroom hunting like Teddy Roosevelt went on his safari to Africa.

AMANA NEWS AND NOTES

Magic in the Air at CCA High

Cinderella, the Roger's and Hammerstein musical, is on stage at Clear Creek Amana High School in Tiffin, April 20 through 22.

The CCA Music and Drama departments present this classic musical with a very talented cast and crew of CCA students. Don't miss the show: 7 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday, plus a 2 p.m. matinee on Saturday as well.

Maifest is Our Fest

The Amana Maipole Dancers are kicking it up in earnest as they prepare for Maifest which is officially just three weeks away on May 6 - 7.

They are planning on six performance Saturday and three on Sunday. They start their round of performances with an 11 a.m. dance at the Festhalle barn on Saturday. For a complete list of their dance times go to the ACCVB website and check out the festivals page or pick up a Maifest brochure.

Performances by the very popular Irish Celtic band, Blame not the Bard, on Saturday afternoon beginning at 11:30 am and on Sunday at noon, plus the Native Pride Dancers and the RTD Irish Dance Team performing at the Festhalle Saturday afternoon will add to the rollicking musical spirit of our spring fest. Another new addition to the festival the group All Natural. Plan to dine at the fest as the Take a Bite food truck pop ups will be at the Festhalle on Saturday 11 till 3 p.m.

Friday and Saturday at 7:30 p.m. head to the Amana Performing Arts Center for the Neil Simon comedy, "I Ought To Be In Pictures" about a fading Hollywood screen writer who is forced to confront his past and face the future in this heart warming, timely and very funny play by TKM Theater Productions. They've added a 3 p.m. Sunday show as well. Call 319-899-3799 for tickets today. $25 for adults.

Some of our very favorite Maifest traditions are back, of course: the 10 a.m. parade in Amana, is always fun and there will be fresh fried potato pancakes and fruit kuchen with the Amana Heritage Society volunteers doing the cooking and serving in their booth at the Festhalle. Contact Jon Childers at the Museum if you can bake or lend a hand.

With temps back in the 40s this week, let's keep our fingers crossed for great weather May 6 and 7 for our annual spring Maifest.

LET'S GROW VEGETABLES- POTATOES AND ONIONS

Do potatoes really have eyes?
Do onions wear rings??

Find out the answers and how to grow these rockstar veggies with the Amana Community Library and Iowa County Master Gardeners.

Saturday, April 22nd, 10-11 AM
at the Communal Kitchen Garden in Middle Amana-

We'll plant potatoes and onions!
(Families should meet at the Communal Kitchen. Parents/Guardians are expected to stay.)

In the Fall after school starts, we'll return to the garden to harvest what we've planted!

Open to students at Amana Elementary & other children in the community for FREE!
All materials will be provided.

They all knew where to look and did not want anyone along even if that meant one of their children might be held for ransom.

Somehow they ALWAYS found mushrooms and even shared them, but NEVER, EVER ask where they went.

My father for some reason was not interested so he never took his family mushroom hunting. We DID get to find the special flowers which seemed more impressive. Our father did not hunt either.

Poor Charlemagne must have felt he had gotten a real "dud." I didn't garden, bowl, was not athletic, frankly what was I good for?

Well, it's over fifty years later and he still can't believe I have never found a mushroom. He, on the other hand has gone out yearly and occasionally has managed to find some.

I am always amused at people who search for these fungi. I've heard of "tricks" of how they leave signals so they can return to the place again or how they won't even tell their own children of where their special mushroom patch.

One man used to hunt for ginseng. The one day he showed his son-in-law the secret place it grew. The very next day he died and with that the location was lost, the one person he showed was not from Amana and could not remember how to find the ginseng again.

I always wonder if I got hold of Lial's sons if they would know the spots their father found the mushrooms.

Unfortunately even though we are related I doubt very much I could get THAT secret pried out of them. It would be the side of the family who did not talk.

MY AMANA EXPERIENCE

Occasionally I'll be featuring someone who works here at Amana Society, Inc. Sometimes they will have jobs you're familiar with, sometimes you may not have heard of their jobs at all. I'll help you to get to know them and explain more about what their jobs entail.

This time I want to introduce Peter Werning, Social Media Specialist and good friend of the Woolen Mill. If you've seen the beautiful photographs online of the looms or the creel here at the Mill, you've seen some of Peter's good work.

Peter Werning went to Bradley University in Peoria, Illinois where he earned his Bachelors of Science in Marketing and Sports Communication. He started his journey at ASI at the end of May 2022, but Peter was not a stranger to Amana. In fact, Peter's aunt owned Lehm Books when he was growing up and he always enjoyed spending time in the Colonies.

Peter tells me that his favorite parts of the job are talking with Amana natives about the history of the Colonies, getting out of the office regularly, and the variety of experiences he has. "It's something new every day".

The Marketing department also includes Sara Montgomery, Art Director, and Eliza Hipschen, Designer. Sara designs t shirts and posters for events, (kudos to you, Sara, our t shirts are always great!) and Eliza creates new email campaigns, websites, and ads. Sara takes photos of the products for websites and social media, whereas Peter takes pictures "on location". The whole team works together and shares work throughout the process.

Peter is a frequent visitor to the Woolen Mill, and he always brightens our day whenever he drops in. He is rather reluctant, however, to let us know the location of his office. As if he thinks we will not find out eventually. If you know where the Marketing office is and you see me or my cohorts, Marquette Senters and Suzanne Beltz, please don't tell us. We plan to quietly figure it out and show up one day at his window, making funny faces.

If you see Peter Werning out and about taking pictures, please let him know how wonderful his work is and that you read about him in the Bulletin. Whether you'd like to threaten to reveal the location of his office, I leave it up to you.

In closing and on a completely unrelated side note, I saw four gorgeous little calves yesterday on my way to work, and I'm looking forward to welcoming the rest soon.

Until next time, all my best,
Amy Petta
