ABOUT THE CITIES

Shanghai

With a population of over 20 million, Shanghai is widely regarded as the centre of finance, trade and communications in China.

As one of the world's busiest ports, Shanghai is a major destination for foreign corporate headquarters, fuelling demand for a highly educated and modernized workforce. Shanghai has one of the world's busiest ports. Since 2005, Shanghai has ranked first of the world's busiest cargo ports throughout, handling a total of 560 million tons of cargo in 2007. Shanghai container traffic has surpassed Hong Kong to become the second busiest port in the world, behind Singapore. Shanghai has recorded a double-digit growth for 15 consecutive years since 1992. In 2008, Shanghai's nominal GDP posted a 9.7% growth to 1.37 trillion Yuan.

Beijing

As the Capital City of the People's Republic of China, Beijing is the country's centre of politics, culture, education and diplomacy.

Beijing is amongst the most developed cities in China with tertiary industry accounting for 73.2% of its GDP, making it the first post industrial city in mainland China. Finance is one of the most important industries of Beijing. By the end of 2007, there are 751 financial organizations in Beijing that generated 128.6 billion RMB revenue accounting for 11.6% of the total financial industry revenue of the entire country. It also accounts for 13.8% of Beijing's GDP, the highest percentage of that of all Chinese cities. Beijing is increasingly becoming known for its innovative entrepreneurs and high-growth start-ups. This culture is backed by a large community of both Chinese and foreign venture capital firms.

Hong Kong

Hong Kong is an ideal gateway to do business in China; it is located geographically at the entrance of China and culturally between the East and the West. Hong Kong is also famous for its open and free economy, sound legal system, low tax system, the world-class communication and its efficient transportation system. Hong Kong is the world's eleventh largest trading entity with the total value of imports and exports exceeding its gross domestic product. Much of Hong Kong's
