 Gospel: Luke 12: 32-48

“Awaiting the Master’s return”

*****

Today's Gospel passage is a continuation of Luke's Gospel, which outlines the Lord's idea of discipleship. The men and women who comprised the earliest Christian communities lived in an age of persecution and fear, and with a very vivid sense of expecting the second coming of Jesus at any moment. So being prepared, being ready for His appearance was a very powerful motivation for them to be faithful in living out the Gospel every day and in every circumstance.

This is a freedom that challenges us to break down barriers and to take personal responsibility for the emergence of the God's reign in this world.

Today's readings sound like those we expect to hear at Advent - all this talk of perseverance in trials, faithfulness in waiting, hope in Jesus' return. But being prepared isn't a part-time virtue, a one-season practice. We are always on the watch for the Lord in our daily lives, trying to discern how to respond to him in prayer and service to others.

We are the people of the promise, the people of God's choice - we are the "evidence of things not seen." At the most unexpected times and in the most surprising ways, the Lord knocks on the door of our lives and asks to be let in. We have been entrusted with much, and still more is demanded of us. How well are we prepared?
