Virginia Hemly Chhabra will present a program on the history of the pear industry in California with emphasis on Delta pears and her family history of Greene & Hemly. Virginia is a sixth-generation farmer who manages the packaging house at Green & Hemly family pear farm. The program will go briefly through the early history of pears plus the history of pears in California and the Delta. She will also give us a presentation on her family history and how it evolved into the pear industry.

Join us on May 21st for this general meeting and potluck dinner. The potluck was changed to May because the weather can be a factor for the January program. It is free to all and a fun filled event. We hope to have some pear beverages and pear food delights.
