A Note from Rick: 2020 is officially in the books and what a year it was. It is definitely one that will be remembered, though not fondly I'm sure. Overall in the livestock markets during 2020, I'd say prices just seemed to struggle along. We didn't have any market that really maintained any strong prices for an extended period of time. There were several markets that experienced some pretty severe lows at certain times throughout the year, but for the most part those markets rebounded rather quickly. Feed prices were very reasonable for the majority of the year. However in the last couple of months and moving into 2021, that has changed. This looks to be the biggest challenge that will have to be dealt with as we enter a new chapter. Hopefully we will see stronger prices to help offset higher feed costs. As we all reflect on 2020, there are many things that could be and will be said. But the greatest thing that sticks out in my mind is how much we have to be thankful for. We are ready to head into 2021 with a positive outlook and are truly excited for the opportunities that it will bring for all of us. TLA is going to be a busy place this year and we pray that the Lord continues to watch over us all! Happy New Year!
