Wedge Anchors are a high-strength, fully threaded, and torque-controlled expansion anchor designed for anchoring into normal-weight concrete, lightweight concrete, and grouted concrete masonry.

Forway Bolt Anchors

These anchors have four legs that expand to hold medium to heavy loads. Made of corrosion-resistant zinc alloy, they can be used with cap screws and threaded rod.

Lag Shield Anchors
This anchor is a corrosion resistant anchor designed to be used with lag screws in concrete and the mortar joints of brick and block walls. For soft or weak masonry, the long version is recommended to add strength to the substrate. The short version is recommended for harder masonry materials to reduce drilling time.

What Type of Tap do I need?

Taper Taps have 7 to 10 thread chamfers to distribute cutting action over many teeth and the taper also acts as a guide in starting.

Plug Taps, with a chamfer over four threads, is most widely used in through holes and where there is sufficient room at the bottom in blind holes.

Bottoming Taps are made with just enough chamfer for starting in the hole, only 1 to 2 half threads. As the name implies, it is designed to thread blind holes to the bottom.

National Pipe Thread Taper (NPT) is a U.S. standard for tapered threads used on threaded pipes and fittings. In contrast to straight threads that are found on a bolt, a taper thread will pull tight and therefore make a fluid-tight seal
