AT FEATHER LAKE

Three times in October, storms resulted in runoff that partially flooded Feather Lake. Each time, the water in the basin lasted less than a week before it all soaked in.

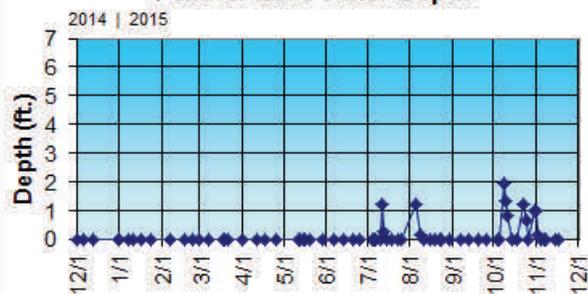

At this writing in mid-November, Feather Lake is again dry. It has now been almost 5 years since our sanctuary was last open to the public. With El Niño conditions continuing to strengthen in the Pacific Ocean, maybe this will be the year our prolonged dry spell breaks.

Our next workday at Feather Lake will be Sat., December 12, starting at 2 p.m. Once again, we'll be removing trash washed in with this year's storms.

Feather Lake is located at 9500 North Loop at Bordeaux in El Paso, 0.3 miles west of Americas Ave.

Audubon at

Rio Bosque Wetlands Park

With recent cooler weather, water-bird numbers have been climbing. Five owl species – Barn, Western Screech, Great Horned, Burrowing and Long-eared – have been using the park this fall.

For up-to-date information on Rio Bosque's birds and water conditions, check www.riobosque.org.

Upcoming free walking tours:

- 3 p.m., Sun., December 6 (Bird tour)
- 9 a.m., Sat., December 12 (Introductory tour)

- 8 a.m., Sat., January 9 (Bird tour)
- 3 p.m., Sun., January 17 (Introductory tour)

The meeting place is a bridge crossing the Riverside Canal. To get there from I-10, take Americas Ave. (Loop 375) to Pan American Drive, turn left onto Pan American and travel 1.5 miles. Information: 747-8663.

Some El Paso bird site lists: updated lists now available

John Kiseda

A few years back, I began a new project of establishing bird lists for a number of our most popular & productive local birding sites and neighborhoods. In addition to some earlier in the year updates, I've recently updated those lists that had new sightings (as of 11/7/15) and I thought that others might find some of these most recent updates of the past year's 'first documented observations' information interesting. In addition to my own observations, also included are observations that have been made by other local & visiting birders, observation notes from 'old' issues of the Roadrunner newsletter (particularly in the initial process of building the lists), eBird records, etc. These lists can all be found on the EP/TP Audubon website in the checklist section, and can be downloaded if desired.

ASCARATE PARK:

4 native species & 3 exotics were added to the list, bringing the total to 194 native species seen there.

Two, somewhat 'common to the area species in the right time of year' hadn't been noted as having been seen here before; Western tanager and Lark bunting; a bit surprising.

CEMENT LAKE:

4 native species were added to the list, bringing the total to 172 native species seen there.

Two, pretty 'common to the area species/types in the right time of year' that hadn't been noted as having been seen here before; Least sandpiper and a tern species [too early & dark to reliably call it the Black tern that I think it was].

KEYSTONE HERITAGE PARK:

The first new, native species sighting in a number of years brought the total to 210 native species/types seen there. During the recent Celebration of the Mountains birding tour, five Sandhill cranes were seen flying past, high up in the clouds....another fairly common El Paso winter migrant, but one not noticed before now.

MEMORIAL PARK:

3 native species were added to the list, bringing the total to 162 native species seen there.

A small, fly-by flock of egrets, was a bit of an unusual sighting for this 'no water nearby' site, but the sighting of a Prairie falcon and a Rufous-crowned sparrow certainly seemed to be 'past due'.

SOUTH MESA HILLS MARSH:

8 native species were added to the list, bringing the total to 76 native species seen there.

As many of the birder's that visit this site primarily do so to hear Virginia rails & Soras, oftentimes visits are made at 'off' times of the day and of very short duration. Some of the pretty 'common to the area species/types in the right time of year' that hadn't been noted as having been seen here before, included sharp-shinned hawk, Green heron and Brewer's sparrow.

EL PASO ZOO:

5 native species were added to the list, bringing the total to 128 native species seen there.

None of the 'additions' were of what might be thought of as common species to be seen in El Paso [such as Merlin, Violet-green swallow], but only one might be thought of as surprising, a Black and white warbler.

CROSSROADS POND:

5 native species were added to the list, bringing the total to 196 native species seen there.

Surprising to have not been documented for the site were Lesser & American goldfinches, and Painted bunting.

KERN PLACE – ARROYO PARK:

3 native species were added to the list, bringing the total to 131 native species seen there.

All three of the species added to the this site's list were a bit on the unusual side...White-throated sparrow, Mallards, and a Belted kingfisher.

MISSION HILLS NEIGHBORHOOD:

Only 1 recent native species was added, bringing the total to 163 native species seen there.

The most recent addition to this area, was a November sighting of a Bewick's wren.

WYLER AERIAL TRAMWAY:

No additional species were added to the list for this site, not usually visited by birders. The list is still at 111 native species.

Field Trips

Saturday and Sunday
December 12 and 13, 2015
Albuquerque and Rosy Finches

The group will visit the Rio Grande Nature Center State Park on Saturday in Albuquerque.
