

The U.S. News, Ranked Washington, DC metro area as the 4th best place to live in the United States. U.S. News analyzed 100 metro areas in the United States to find the best places to live based on quality of life and the job market in each metro area, as well as the value of living there and people's desire to live there. Home to the 45th President and our Nation's Capital where law and government influence our way of life, DC is a very international city. DC has more than 175 embassies and international cultural centers. Fifteen percent of DC residents speak a language other than English. Because DC has a diverse culture, ethnic and socioeconomic backgrounds of all nations, the opportunity to share the truth about Jesus is paramount.

If you are a sport enthusiast we have six professional teams. We have NFL football team, a NBA basketball team, a MLB baseball team, a NHL hockey team, a MLS soccer team and a WTT tennis team for you to cheer and watch with your family and friends. We also have monuments, memorials and museums for your enjoyment too honoring the past and the present. The newest museums to open are the African American Museum and the Museum of the Bible.

Fig1 PC: pexels.com

The Cherry Blossom Trees that line the Tidal Basin are always a favorite site to see every spring in DC. Tourist and locals gather every year to view the beautiful pink blooms.

Washington, D.C. and its surrounding communities are clean, and there are a plethora of outdoor public parks and stuff to do with friends and family for all ages. The Washington, D.C., metro area has the perks of a large urban area. It's serviced by an extensive public transit system and has a diversity of restaurants and entertainment venues for you to choose from. Each neighborhood in the District and its surrounding towns has its own atmosphere. Residents gather socially, mingle at dog parks, playgrounds, on the Mall and converse at coffee shops, creating an ambiance similar to that of a much smaller community.

Fig1 PC: pexels.com

When deciding to relocate, we hope you will strongly consider being our Pastor at Agape Baptist Church where you can help us make a difference in Washington DC sharing the truth about Jesus Christ.

Fig2 PC: Ashton Bingham