A Note from Rick: Mixed markets at TLA this week. The slaughter cow market fell a little further this week. Prices are off as much as $.15 from 4-6 weeks ago. This trend is common for this time of year and generally stays depressed through the Thanksgiving season. Calf prices were steady to a little stronger this week. This market has been very steady for quite some time now and I look for this to continue. Feeders were steady as well and this market will get a good test this Tuesday at our Special Feeder Sale. The Friesian Fall Classic on Friday and Saturday was definitely a great sale. I was really impressed by how many quality horses came through the ring and prices were steady. We are looking forward to our Driving Horse Auction on Saturday, October 24th and then the "big" week. We are expecting to have a tremendous Fall Draft. Be sure and check out TLA this Fall. It's definitely where the action is!
