From their offices in Atlanta and New Orleans,

Health & Wealth Consultants has been able to provide specialized services throughout the Southeastern United States.

Entering his 15th year in the financial service industry, Chadrick Kennedy leads the Employee Benefit Services team for Health & Wealth Consultants. He brings a unique skill set in being able to quantify the relationship between our employee benefits, personal financial wellbeing, and the fiscal health of an employer. Mr. Kennedy studied Civil Engineering at Howard University, and brought the analytical thought process he sharpened to the financial services industry. While working as Certified Financial Planner for high net worth clients, it wasn't long before he met business owners who had severe challenges managing to their health insurance expenditure. Reaching back to his earliest financial services background, and using proprietary methods that his team developed, he found solutions for his clients. These early experiences pointed Mr. Kennedy to the direction that the employee benefits team at HAWC focuses on now. As a result, he has been a featured speaker and panelist on various topics related to Health & Wealth.
