President Letter – October 2017

Wrapping up 2017

The end of the year is coming. Halloween candy was on store shelves at the end of August, leaves are changing color, and Christmas decorations are out. And I start thinking -- do I have enough time to finish all the Christmas projects I planned? I started some early and have only to add the finishing touches, but I would like to do more. <sigh> Guess I'd rather have too many projects than not enough options.

There are 2 meetings left in 2017, and I have a conflict and cannot attend the October meeting. Sorry to be missing a chainmaille workshop, but I will be at the November meeting at Meant to Bead. After taking December and January off, we have some fun stuff planned for 2018 including a 2 part bead embroidery project.

September meeting recap:

Thanks for those of you came out; it was a small meeting but good conversation. I liked seeing what you were working on and if I was thinking, I would have taken a picture of some pieces. Keep bringing show-n-tell, I would like to include pictures in future letters.
