You should have already received a letter through regular mail with your scholar's report card and Google Classroom login information. If you do not receive that letter by tomorrow, please e-mail an Eagle Administrator, Guidance Counselor, or Educator. For a list of staff emails, please click the "Educators" link on the home page.

To be clear, scholars and educators are being asked to work from home. This is not a vacation. There will be multiple assignments due on Google Classroom each week. Scholars are expected to view the videos their educators post, read the notes, and submit work on time. If scholars have questions, they are expected to e-mail their educators or post a comment on the Google Classroom page.

Here are two tutorial videos to assist scholars in navigating the Google Classroom platform:

If you want a video that takes you slowly step-by-step:

If your scholar fails to complete assignments, he will be at risk of not earning credits, or not passing classes. Our young men are also at risk of missing out on valuable learning opportunities if they do not complete assignments. Let's continuously remind our young men that their competition around the world is not resting. They must use this crucial moment in history to strengthen themselves, and come out of this crisis stronger, ready to compete, and ready to lead.

Thank you.
