

WHEN THE SUFFRAGETTE ARMY MET GOVERNOR SULZER AT ALBANY

—Copyright by American Press Ass'n.

In the Picture General Rosalie Jones, Who Led the Brave Little Coterie of "Hikers," Is Shown Second From Governor Sulzer's Right.

ALBANY, Jan. 4.—(Special)—Governor William Sulzer believes in simplicity. He went into office as chief executive of the great state of New York with Jeffersonian simplicity as the keynote of his inauguration. He doesn't like frills. He even goes so far as to object to having any middle initial to his name donated by kind, but misinformed suffragists.

"I am plain Bill Sulzer," said he when the suffragist pilgrim army, headed by "General" Rosalie Jones, presented him just before his inauguration with their message. The message was addressed to "the Hon. William L. Sulzer."

"I don't know him," said the new governor when he read the inscription.

"Why, it's for you," insisted the suffragettes.

Then he told them he was simply plain Bill.

The pilgrims said they hoped their mistake wouldn't make any difference, and "plain Bill" said it didn't, and then he added that he favored women suffrage. The pilgrims, who had hiked it from New York to Albany, went away glad.