

2013 Trial Results

Our grouse trial dogs had another awesome year. Thanks again to all the owners of these fine dogs that supported us.

Our highlight of the year was finishing up our cover dog season by winning the Grand National Grouse Championship in New Hampshire with Moss Meadow Traveler. He is owned by Ken Moss. Traveler had a great fall season as he also won the Michigan Cover Dog Championship and was runner-up in the Wisconsin Cover Dog Championship.

Quail Trap Sadie won the North Country Shooting Dog Championship at the Barrens in Wisconsin. This was a championship run on sharptailed grouse. This championship was very special to me as it made me the first person in history to win walking championships on four different game birds. I have now won walking championships on ruffed grouse, sharptailed grouse, woodcock and quail. Sadie is owned by Dave Hawk.

Pinehill Silent Echo, owned by Eric Naus, won her first championship with a brilliant performance at the Minnesota Grouse Championship.

Springpond's Shooting Star, owned by Bernie Bauman, had three nice wins this spring and was also a top contender in three championships.

Dun Roven's Gary, owned by Rich Hollister and Jack Harang, also had three nice wins this spring. Unfortunately, a broken tail took him out of most of the fall trial season.

Ponderosa Mac, owned by Bruce Cartwright, got his career off to a nice start with a first place in the derby competition.

Jetwood, owned by Mike Cooper, had a nice shooting dog placement to get him completely qualified for our championships.

2013 Grand National Grouse Championship

Moss Meadow Traveler