

Cadre Training Days

TX WING WINTER ENCAMPMENT 2019

For the past two days, the cadet cadre have been preparing for the much-anticipated arrival of the students. Since reaching Camp Bullis Friday afternoon, cadre have set up the encampment site for the students. They have attended classes, practiced drill for pass-in-review, and bonded with their fellow cadre members. The support cadre, which consists of medical, logistics, general support, public affairs, communications and administration, settle in and prepare their stations. The operations cadre learn the skills they need to instruct the next generation of cadets, such as drill movements, correct uniform wear, and general knowledge about CAP.

Pictured above are the outstanding cadre of this encampment

In the picture to the left, some cadet cadre members participate in a group leadership project.

On the right is our cadet commander, Cadet Lieutenant Colonel Alyssa Kohler. She is at the top of the cadet chain of command for this activity.

Cadre Quotes & Advice:

“Be prepared; always keep your gear near you and remember where you left items.” –
Cadet Major Christopher Schramko – 123rd Squadron Commander

“Don’t stop. Keep going for that one more, it gets better.” – Cadet First Lieutenant David Nuttall – Golf Flight Commander

Safety Advice for the Day

Don’t forget to hydrate! -Cadet Major Andrea Chun

Cadet cadre in-process into encampment

Cadre move to the dining facility