The Unhappy American Act of 2020

Section 1

To help its citizens who believe there are better places in the world to live, the federal government, through the Department of Homeland Security will offer, starting October 1, 2030, the following one-time benefit:

Each United States citizen may receive a free, one-time, one way, first class airline ticket to anywhere in the world plus $150 for baggage fees. Each legal dependent of said citizen is entitled to the same benefit, but all must take the trip at the same time.

The citizen and their dependent(s) understand and agree that they will not be allowed to return to the United States for any reason and further agree to forever forfeit all rights or privileges due them as citizens of the United States.

The office of Homeland Security will, at the time of departure, provide each U. S. citizen and legal dependent leaving the country with them a United States passport, valid for three years. It will clearly state that the citizen, or dependent, has voluntarily agreed to permanently leave the United States. It will further state that no legal action is contemplated or pending by any federal, state, or local agency against the citizen or dependent.

Any citizen or dependent who has taken advantage of this program and is later found in the United States after leaving shall be considered as having violated this Act. Mandatory punishment, upon conviction, shall be not less than twenty years in a federal medium security prison.

Note:

Like all proposals from the Laws Made Simple Group, this bill is designed to be accepted as is, without any changes in wording, dates, amounts and without any amendments. Most bills presented for consideration contain fewer than two thousand words. The Group requests that the Speaker of the House employ the "Up and Down" voting method for all its bills being offered for consideration. While our overall goal is to reduce federal expenditures, we rely on the expertise of others to calculate the real cost of this proposal.
