

Minnesota Music Hall of Fame Inductee

Steele Family Singers

Inducted in 2008

The Steeles are a family of sisters and brothers who have been singing together since they were young children in Gary, Indiana.

They began to develop their style and soul in Minneapolis and have earned every award that the music community has offered in the state in the past 20 years.

They have recorded and performed with many celebrities, including Prince. They have also worked with many corporate clients and have been featured on national and local commercials.

The Steeles have performed around the world and each of them has also taken their own paths in participating in productions, composing music, performing, and producing.

Most families are lucky to have one member with such success, but the Steele's have all had successful stories to share about their careers.
