

VIVIAN KAEPPPEL

Vivian brings to Friday School a passion for teaching, with a particular emphasis on classical education and history, especially that of the United States. She comes with more than fifteen years of teaching experience, not limited to the time she has invested in homeschooling her five children. Over the past decade, Vivian has been engaged in numerous and varied aspects of children's ministry and education, including children and youth choirs, vacation Bible schools, gospel-centered sports programs, and discipleship groups.

Vivian's academic credentials include :

- Bachelor's degree in History, Harvard-Radcliffe College;
- Undergraduate Teacher Education Program, Harvard Univ. Grad. School of Education;
- Massachusetts teacher certification in History, secondary education (high school);
- Law degree (J.D.), University of Pennsylvania.

Vivian and her husband Scott live, raise and homeschool their five children in the beautiful San Antonio area. In addition, Vivian has served as a co-director of Friday School for the past three years and has been blessed immensely to get to know and serve the students and families who have graced these halls.
