This was one of HDR's most interesting and challenging projects. The challenge was to locate a new 16-bed Inpatient Care Center certified as LEED Gold, on the site of an existing homecare office building without disrupting any services. Minimal open space was available, leading to a solution where the new IPU "bridges" over the top of the existing office building. Several approvals such as revised zoning statues, appearance committee hearings, Planning Board approvals, etc. were required. HDR is currently working with the Chicago Botanical Garden to design a unique Memorial Garden to serve as a community attraction. The solution looks as though it was part of the original structure in appearance and scale, while still being completely separate from the existing offices.
