

TRYING SOMETHING NEW

Aug. 25, 2019

As an independent author, I have stuck my toes, or fingers, into several different and unique areas to stretch the boundries of my craft. Many of you have already seen the diverse genres in which I like to write. Paranormal Romance: TEAM NIGHTLY series, GUARDING MY SIX; as well as mystery: BLACK HARVEST, and Speculative Fiction: SECRETS IN BETHLEHEM, and, most recently I have ventured into Science Fiction. (This book is, as yet, unpublished.) THE WEAPONS THEY USE.

However, no one likes being placed inside a box and, in my opinion doing the same thing, or writing in the same fashion in this case, is like placing myself inside a box. That isn't a bad thing, really. A lot of people prefer to do what works best for them and is comfortable doing it. But, let's get a little creative and make sure that box has rubber walls that can be stretched and rearranged. If you don't stir things up a little every now and again, you get bored and tend to stagnate.

That is why I have taken a sharp right turn into screenwriting. Yes, you saw correctly! I have, so far, completed THREE FEATURE SCRIPTS, two of which are based on a couple of my published books; SECRETS IN BETHLEHEM and BLACK HARVEST. The third is an original that my unpublished manuscript is based upon. I have also completed a pilot for a Network, Prime-time paranormal crime drama and a pilot for a sit-com.

Whew! That looks like a lot of work. But, you know what? I really enjoyed trying something new.

I have recently updated my website and added a new feature that many people seem to appreciate. On the homepage, you can now download, and print if you like, a free sample of some of my books. Just go to www.kate-porter.net and, on the homepage click the button next to the book sample and voila!

While you're there, you can check out some of my poetry and view a few of my other works, as well.

Time for another cup of coffee!!!
