A Note from Rick: Nothing new to report from the Tuesday Sale last week. Markets were unchanged across the board and it seems these markets are stuck in a rut. Fall is here and that definitely stimulates more activity in these markets, but that hasn't had any effect on prices. There doesn't seem to be a lot of excitement or enthusiasm on the buyer side of things and that combined with the normal increase in livestock being sold this time of year doesn't make me foresee any big changes in the near future. We had our Fall Alternative Animal Auction Oct 5-6 and things went very smoothly. We sold over 1,200 cages on Friday and over 400 individual animals on Saturday. I can't say enough about the team of people here at TLA and their efforts to pull this off without a hitch. From the office to the barn, things went very well and that hasn't always been the case in the past. Hard work, dedication and working together to improve processes and streamline the flow of animals in and out have definitely paid off. I received a lot of compliments this weekend on how efficient the sale is ran and that is due to the employees at TLA. Looking forward to switching gears to horses! Come check out TLA this Fall.....it's where the a_uction is!!
