

BRAVERMAN NATURE ASSESSMENT QUESTIONNAIRE

from The Edge Effect by Eric R. Braverman, M.D.

PART I: DETERMINING YOUR DOMINANT NATURE

Instructions: Answer each question by writing either T for true or F for false. At the end of each group, record only the total number of true statements in the space provided.

Answer the questions in terms of how you feel most of the time. For example, if you've had a bad night's sleep and feel tired today, answer the questions that pertain to your energy levels based on how you feel on a more average day.

Total number of T responses: _____

The category with the greatest number of true responses will identify your dominant nature. A classically dominant nature is typically a score of 35 and above in any one category, which suggests a less-than balanced life.

Note: When any other nature is 10-15 points lower than the dominant one, the nature with the lower score is probably a lifelong relative deficiency and needs balance even in times of good health. For example, if your score is 40 dopamine, 33 acetylcholine, 25 GABA, and 17 serotonin, you likely have long-standing relative deficiencies in both GABA and serotonin.

PART 2: DEFINING YOUR DEFICIENCIES

Instructions: Answer each question by circling either T for true or F for false. At the end of each group, record only the total number of true statements in the space provided. The second assessment will determine if you are deficient in any of the four biochemicals, including the one that governs your nature. Many of the questions relate to symptoms you might be experiencing. Answer the questions in terms of how you feel right now; it doesn't matter how long you've been experiencing these symptoms, or even if they occurred today for the first time.
