

SUNDAY MORNING MEDITATION

In Psalm 16 David gives voice to a profoundly practical spiritual principle: if we keep the Lord constantly before our eyes, if we "practice" His presence, so to speak, and live as ever in His holy company, our hearts will always be glad, our souls will rejoice, and even our bodies will dwell securely. "I have set the Lord continually before me; because He is at my right hand, I will not be shaken. Therefore my heart is glad, my soul rejoices, and my flesh dwells in hope" (Ps. 16:8-9). If we walked before Him, always conscious of His vigilant nearness, what vanities we would shun, what sins avoid, what virtues we would zealously cultivate! How carefully we would guard our precious time! Surely this is the way for a Christian to live, in deliberate fellowship with the One who said, "Behold, I AM always with you" (Matt. 28:20). All for Jesus, Richard
