RESIDENTIAL CARE HOME SERVICES

This is a live-in housing and care option for people who do not have skilled medical needs, such as a feeding tube or daily injections. Generally, a residential care home provides the following:

- A room, either private or shared
- Meals
- Varying levels of assistance with daily living activities, such as toileting, bathing, and even money and health care management
- Custodial care, such as laundry, housekeeping, and transportation to doctor appointments
- Reminders to take medications or actual medication administering.

Adult family homes "are wonderful for individuals who are looking for a smaller-home-like setting.

They'll eat home-cooked meals in the kitchen. [The home] will have a front porch or back porch and a garden. [It] will offer lots of one-on-one tender loving care."

Hart Referrals, LLC Refers to:

- Home Healthcare Services
- Residential Care Home
- Senior Behavioral Health-65 and older with mild, moderate or severe mental health concerns.
