A day away in a quiet place

Maya Angelou said, “Each person deserves a day away in which no problems are confronted, no solutions searched for. Each of us needs to withdraw from the cares which will not withdraw from us.” Similarly, when Jesus’ disciples were consumed with ministry, he urged them, “Come with me by yourselves to a quiet place and get some rest” (Mark 6:31, NIV).

The late days of summer might be just the time to seek “a day away” not only from problems but even from ministry. While serving God and others can be energizing, we must balance work with rest. God set that example, resting after creating the world; Jesus set that example, calling his disciples away — not just alone, but with him — to be refreshed.

Spend a relaxing day at a lake. Go on a scrapbooking retreat or a leisurely hike with a friend. Find a monastery that welcomes guests, and experience 48 hours of prayer and silence there. Invite Jesus into that time and space. And remember another message he shared: “Come to me, all you who are weary and burdened, and I will give you rest” (Matthew 11:28, NIV).

Mission Message

HOME AWAY FROM HOME

Do you have a teen going away to college for the first time? Or a returning student who felt out at sea and lonely last year? Or even a local student who is just looking for more peer relationships and opportunities for service? College is a huge enough transition without having to also leave your church family behind. ELCA Campus Ministry fills that void. The mission of campus ministry in the ELCA is to invite people in academic settings to engage more deeply with the teachings of Jesus Christ and the community that bears his name, so that they can discover and fulfill their vocation as disciples.

ELCA campus ministry is a Lutheran ministry for students, faculty, staff and others on campus, not just a ministry for Lutherans. It provides an ELCA presence at more than 180 state and private colleges and universities with cooperating congregations in campus ministry at an additional 400 campuses nationwide.

Drawing on the Scriptures and the Lutheran Confessions, campus ministry bears witness to God's amazing grace within the context of higher education. Sensitive to the pastoral needs of those on campus and engaged in the intellectual discourse of the university, campus ministry strives to communicate the gospel in fresh ways.

Through worship, study, fellowship and service, members of the academic community taste the fullness of God's grace. As expansive as Christ's love, campus ministry reaches out to all who teach and learn, inviting them to experience the challenge of following Jesus.

We are a church that is energized by lively engagement in our faith and life. Lutheran campus ministries promote community, discipleship and service. You can refer a student, find a ministry or find contact information for campus ministry staff at LuMin-network or ELCA/LuMin.

This ministry is supported by your Synod Mission Support. Thank you!

We are church together for the sake of the world. God's work. Our Hands.

Pastor's message..

Who is my neighbor?

By: Pastor Tara L. Eastman

I've said before how much I appreciate the ministry of Fred Rodgers. On his television show, "Mr. Rogers' Neighborhood" he took seriously the needs of children and used his platform to help children in any way he could. While there are so many anecdotes I could share about Fred – one that comes to mind on this Sunday we read the lesson of the Good Samaritan, is one that addresses the topic of differences that can arise between people because of race, religion, gender or orientation.

In Episode 1065 of Mr. Rogers neighborhood, it opens with Rogers inviting viewers to be in his neighborhood; but instead of putting on his iconic cardigan, Rogers talks about how hot the day is and how nice it would be to put his feet in a pool of cool water. He moves to his front yard where he fills a small plastic pool with water and begins to soak his feet. Soon Officer Clemmons, a black police officer in his neighborhood, drops by for a visit and is invited to share the pool with him. Clemmons accepts, rolls up his pant legs of his uniform, and places his brown feet in the same water as Roger's very white feet. While today this may not seem to be a significant action of "neighboring" or "social justice" – in 1969 it was considerable.

At that time public fountains, public transportation, and public schools, the public pool had become a battleground of racial segregation.

(christianpopculture.com)

In this pivotal moment of sharing a pool of cool water – Fred Rogers and Officer Clemmons boldly proclaim

"We are in this neighborhood together. We are each other's neighbor."

pastor con't..

Neighborhood – and neighboring the people in our lives is an idea that may start out small – like a “You are here!” dot on a map... but as most things that start out with simple questions like, “Who is my neighbor?” as posed by the lawyer to Jesus... we find that God’s call to neighboring and expansion of our ideas of neighborhood is one that continually expands bigger and bigger.

When in seminary at Wartburg Theological Seminary in Dubuque, Iowa; one of my first classroom neighbors was Peter.

“Peter belongs to a group of young men known as the Lost Boys of the Sudan – he along with 3600 other in 1999, were recommended for resettlement in the US – primarily with the help of Lutheran Immigration and Refugee Services and the US Catholic Conference. Peter and his brotherhood that dubbed him, “Peter Pan” for his care for so many other children displaced by the violence and destruction of civil war – for nine years he endured and cared for the children that God brought into his “neighborhood” until arriving in Fargo, North Dakota in 1999.”

You can imagine my shock to hear Peter’s stories of the Sudan. How when he first arrived in the U.S. and was set up with two fellow Lost Boys in an apartment – and did not eat anything in the cupboards; because

1. They were not sure who the supplies were for.
2. They have never seen a box of cereal in their life.

The culture shock for Peter and his brothers was incredible – but day by day; he became acquainted with this strange new “neighborhood” of Fargo, North Dakota and the Midwest. As I think back on that classroom, with Peter – and in time many other international students that were in training to become pastors, I was always amazed by their desire to learn everything they could from their adopted neighbors – so that they could help cultivate a sense of safety, welcome, of true neighborhood; wherever it would be that God was calling them in the future.

HOSPITALIZATIONS

The church office no longer receives calls from the hospital when a member is hospitalized. It would be appreciated if someone from the family would call the church office when a hospitalization occurs. In addition to calls no longer being made to the office by hospital volunteers, the computer used by the clergy at the hospital to locate hospitalized members has been removed. Thank you for your assistance. In case of hospital emergency, please contact Pastor Eastman at 716 969-3950.

As Lutheran Christians, we have a deep rooted history in refugee and immigrant issues. One in every six Lutherans in the world was a refugee or displaced person after WWII. And so as we hear the lawyer's question to Jesus, "Who is my neighbor?" Our neighborhood expands from something tiny and close – to a globally one – where we seek to respond to God's call for dignity for all people and a value of family unity.

We keep them before us – so that we do not forget Peter, and all immigrants – of the grim realities many face and the resourcefulness and hope these newcomers bring with them.

In this lesson of the good Samaritan, Jesus engages the imagination of the listener to see and hear God's call to neighboring. It is a spiritual practice – neighboring.

It is something the church has been doing for years. It is something that happens on global level and national levers with organizations like Lutheran World Relief/Lutheran Disaster Relief. Neighboring happens inside the organization process of local churches: from dinners delivered in illness or the birth of a new child, to quilts and food, and coffee fellowship after worship on Sunday.

This act of neighboring, is something that happens in organizations, but in all honesty gets its start with the question of the day, "Who is my neighbor?"

It's in that answer that the wheels of compassion and neighboring move, live and change lives for so many of us that within a generation or two, can also identify what it means to be new to a neighborhood – we all in one way or another are immigrants of another place. And in a great spiritual sense, we are in this world – and not yet of it – but called to make it a welcoming neighborhood while we are passing through.

In this lesson from Luke 10, Jesus tells a story of humans trying to live into the question of... "Who is my neighbor?" →

- Some people in this story, move on without getting their hands dirty with the human need that is right in front of them.
- Some take up the call to neighbor, and welcome someone they don't know, all because the need determines a compassionate response.
- Sometimes, in our own lives we are rushed and think there is nothing we can do to help – for the problem is too big for one person to solve.

In many cases this is true – big problems call for the neighboring action of an entire community to come together, to live in compassion and the look at the person God places before them and exclaim, “Yes – you are my neighbor – will you be my neighbor too?”

Richard Rohr says this about stepping into the challenging space of loving God, loving others and loving ourselves: “It is the vocation of the prophet to keep alive the ministry of imagination, to keep on conjuring and proposing futures alternative to the single one the king want to urge as the only thinkable one...”

Like Fred and Mr. Clemons sharing a pool of cool water on a hot day, like Peter becoming “Peter Pan” to take on the needs of fellow youth displaced by civil war, there are many ways to love one another in Jesus name. In our baptisms, God makes us his children as we were sprinkled or possibly dunked with cool, refreshing water. Our king – our God is one that invites everyone to the pool. Our God is one that engages us to use our imagination to see a way forward, for all people to be welcomed as beloved children of God.

God calls each of us to wrestle with and craft our answer and action in response to the question of the day, “Who is my neighbor?”

We are called to love God, love others, and love ourselves in the life-long ministry of ever expanding efforts, trials, failures, do overs and hope motivated by compassion.

This is the "go and do likewise" that Jesus calls us to. I am your neighbor, you are my neighbor and we the "church" are the neighborhood where God invites everyone come to the cool water and finally be forever, safe, welcomed and home.

Ponder this: How can my "neighborhood" become bigger – like God's? Who is God calling me/us to neighbor?

The Master's works

As a skilled inventor, John Muir was a prized factory employee in Indianapolis. If not for an industrial accident in his 20s, he may have spent his life making things indoors. But after recovering from being temporarily blinded, Muir headed on a 1,000-mile walk to "consider the lilies." He then began doing that literally, as a botanist.

To his résumé, the 19th-century Renaissance man added naturalist, glaciologist, conservationist, founder of the Sierra Club, and Father of National Parks. Yet when Muir was asked what he did, he replied simply, "I study the inventions of God."
