The proposition won because they were able to sustain their argument that body cameras are effective tools to hold police and citizens accountable for their actions because there is video & audio evidence of what really happened, citing a study done by University of Cambridge claiming that 70% of complaints dropped as a result of deploying body cameras.

PROP

OPP

- good evidence and assertion but left 1:24 unused. can improve by knowing your topic better and reading less.
- good use of time, good refutations, introduced additional arguments to strengthen the teams' chances of winning
- good use of time, very animated and confident, great rebuttal and refutation.

- introduced arguments but failed to provide reasoning & evidence etc is understandable given their circumstances.
- started out good, definitely have the proper skills needed to succeed as a debater but I feel that you gave up given your circumstances.
- led great with the limited materials you had to work with. strong presence, confident and knowledgeable of the topic given the fact that they prepared for the prop instead of opp.
