To our Customers,

Over the past several months there have been significant changes to product safety laws with the passing of the Consumer Product Safety Act (CPSIA). We work diligently to ensure that we meet or exceed all standards and pride ourselves on producing safe, quality products.

Currently, the biggest areas of concern are in regards to lead and phthalates. We have long been testing our products for lead and general safety and now are ensuring that products are in compliance with all the new phthalate requirements as well. We have begun our transition to all phthalate free inks and will be completely phthalate free by June 2009.

In accordance with the CPSIA regulations we are making Product Safety Certifications available online at www.kidtee.com/safety. In addition, please call us anytime to ask questions or discuss the new rules.

We will continue to work hard to ensure that we produce fun, high quality, and SAFE products. Thank you for your continued business.

Sincerely,

Rick Taylor
