"The copyright in century XXI: challenges and concerns" panel of the Fórum of the Freedom, that happened day 17/04, in building 41 of the PUCRS, in Porto Alegre was the subject debated 4º. The General Director of the Net Services, Francisco Valim, pointed that 75% of the Brazilians make use of the piracy, being that great part of this number is of the classrooms and B. "In this in case that, is proven that the problem in Brazil is the call `jeitinho', because income is not", detaches. Palestrante presented Law of Gerson, that it consists of people who like to take advantage in, in the negative direction of if using to advantage of all the situations in proper benefit, without if mattering with the ethics. Valim also showed that only in the city of São Paulo, in 2005, pirates had been apprehended 1,5 million of copies of cds. Already in 2006, the number increased for 2 million. "The way against the piracy is a cultural question", evaluated.

Already the palestrante and Vice-president of The Heritage Foundation, Becky Norton Dunlop, approached the principles of the individual freedom through the indices of economic freedom. "If the humanity never had developed the concept of `I' and of `mine', never we would have the right to enjoy a good. This concept was a necessary condition for the evolution of the world", explains Becky. According to palestrante, currently, the people pass 40% of its lives searching a professional formation. "This certifies the progress of the evolution human being. The world more grows a thousand times in the qualification of people of what at the time where the economy survived of the agricultural production. This fact must it the rights of physical properties and intellectual", it affirmed.

Already Director-President and co-founder of the Institute will be Trade, Standards and Sustainable Development, Lawrence Kogan, were emphatical: necessary Brazil to know that something exists called copyright e, had to this, the population has a great challenge: to serve with integrity, either in the government, either in the work. "The ideas of rights of properties must be clarified well", said. It also synthecizes the challenge citing James Madison: "A person does not have only right in its properties, but also she has property in its rights".
