Pricey purses at Bingo

by N.L. Preston

“When your mother asks if you want a piece of advice, it doesn’t matter if you answer yes or no. You’re going to get it anyway.” —Erma Bombeck

It’s the merry month of May and time to look forward to the sultry days of summer; unless you’re like me and hate to sweat. Daylight savings time is allowing an extra hour of daylight in the evening so we’re no longer driving to bingo in the dark and cold. Recently, my friends and I attended a Purse Bingo for a charity event. I thought my luck might change since I was not playing for money, but for something in which I could hide any future winnings from my loving, but nosy, husband who would never look in a purse. Every female should have a stash of hidden cash for whatever, no questions asked.

It was a wonderful bingo for a modest amount of money and for a worthy charity, the music program at a local school district. Dinner was included as well as an auction for various gift certificates which went to the highest bidder on each item. Now, full disclosure, I am not a big purse carrying kind of gal, and most of the bingo prize purses were fairly large. Included in the group were Kate Spade, Michael Kors, Louis Vuitton, and other pricy purses retailing from $250 to over $700. I had my eye on a small beige crossbody bag that eventually went to another lucky player, so what else is new? I’ve adjusted to my long losing streaks somewhat, but I still bemoan the loss of that little cutie that cost way too much for what amounted to a designer’s name on a bag to carry essentials. So, the question is why do these purses carry such exorbitant price tags?

The oldest known surviving handbag is inlaid with gold and silver and was made in Iraq around 1300 A.D. From there, we skip to the 16th century when historical evidence shows that both sexes carried purses attached to their belts. In the next century handbags became a status symbol for wealthy women who commissioned skilled craftsmen to make purses and thus display their social status.

During the next century mass production of purses as we know them began and they became affordable to most women. In the 1900s iconic designers came forward to once again fulfill the desire from affluent women to flaunt their standings in polite society and this caused their prices to skyrocket. Louis Vuitton, renowned for monogrammed canvas bags, was founded in 1854. Fast forward to 1955 when Chanel introduced the quilted leather handbag with a chain strap; followed in 1960 by those made by Valentino. FYI, the best known and most coveted luxury handbags in the world are made by Hermes. The company released the Kelly, named after Princess Grace Kelly in the 1950s. However, by far the most expensive designer handbag currently available is the Hermes Birkin bag, and it can be yours for a mere $220,000. To go cheaper, the brass and gold Balenciaga Hourglass Metal Handbag, extra small, can be purchased for the bargain price of $22,800. Sound good? Buy two and send me one. And don’t forget to take all the moms in your life to bingo on May 24th, Mother’s Day.

Sports betting goes live in NC

After several years of wrangling over a sports betting bill, North Carolina recently became the 38th state, plus Washington, D.C., to allow some form of sports betting and the 30th to offer legal online wagering. The governor signed the bill legalizing sports betting into law last June and the twelve licensees paid $1 million each to partner with an existing Tar Heel State sports team, sporting venue, and/or Native American tribe; the must also “make efforts to” offer in-person betting. Eight of the twelve went live at press time: Bet365 with partner the Charlotte Hornets; BetMGM/Charlotte Motor Speedway; Caesars/Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians; DraftKings/NASCAR; ESPN BET/Quail Hollow Golf Club (PGA Tour); Fanatics/Carolina Hurricanes; FanDuel/Carolina Panthers; and Underdog/Sedgefield Country Club (PGA).

Rhode Island makes seven

Online-casino gambling launched recently in Rhode Island, making it the seventh state to offer igaming and the first to launch it since Connecticut in October 2021. Bally’s is the sole provider of icasino games in the Ocean State; it also holds the monopoly for brick-and-mortar casinos, with one each in Lincoln and Tiverton. The proprietary igaming app features 170 slots and live-dealer blackjack and roulette; the company partnered with StakeLogic, a live-table-game supplier, for its blackjack and roulette software and the technology for its 4,000-square-foot live-game studio in Lincoln.

Suncoast to upgrade

Boyd Gaming has announced a major refresh for its 24-year-old northwest Las Vegas hotel-casino Suncoast. The two-year project continues work that started last year with a new high-limit room and the debut of William B’s steakhouse. The showroom will be converted into a stadium-style sports book scheduled to open in time for football season; the current sports book will be turned into a new bingo room, while the current bingo room on the second floor will add more meeting space. One of the table-game pits will be transformed into a 70-seat raised chandelier bar and the casino will be modernized.

MGM may bail

MGM Resorts is looking at selling properties in Ohio and Massachusetts, Bloomberg recently reported. The Vegas-based gaming company took over management of MGM Northfield Park, a racino near Cleveland, from Hardrock International in 2019. MGM Springfield opened in August 2018 as the first traditional casino in Massachusetts. That venue, which generated $278 million in sales in 2023, hasn’t lived up to the operator’s expectations. “Our original valuation of this market simply was off — full stop,” said MGM CEO Bill Hornbuckle in a press briefing.

Spin and win

In an effort to cater to the evolving fitness preferences of Brits in 2024, Mecca Bingo has introduced a new fitness concept called Mecca Spingo. This unique combination of exercise and bingo aims to help customers stick to their New Year's fitness resolutions by merging bingo with spinning. The concept involves spin instructors doubling as bingo callers and leading classes from the saddle of a spin bike. As participants pedal to energetic tracks, they will simultaneously be able to mark off their bingo cards. Mecca Bingo's decision to launch Spingo stems from a survey revealing that 43% of the nation has made fitness resolutions for 2024, with 22% specifically seeking more exciting workout options. Recognizing the need to motivate individuals to stay committed to their goals, Mecca Bingo hopes this new scheme will be able to inject a dose of enthusiasm into people's exercise routines. Sarah O'Neill, Head of Innovation for Mecca Bingo, stated: "Pace, adrenaline-pumping competition and joy—the worlds of bingo and spin classes have a lot more in common than people may think!"

Recycling Bingo

To celebrate America Recycles Day, Wake County in North Carolina made recycling all fun and games, launching its annual bingo game to help residents learn about recycling and win some prizes. "America Recycles Day falls on Nov. 15, but every single day we should be thinking about minimizing waste and recycling better because it impacts generations," said Wake County Board of Commissioners Vice Chair Susan Evans. Wake County residents download their bingo game card online and complete activities that help them learn about best recycling practices and available resources. Those who complete a bingo card receive prizes, this year's included a reusable stainless-steel straw with a cleaning brush and pouch. Disposable plastic straws have a huge impact on the environment. In the U.S. alone, people throw away millions of straws daily, which can last 200 years, polluting waterways and sickening animals. In addition to the reusable straw, everyone who plays their bingo card also has a chance to win a free composting bin.

Horseracing Bingo debuts

In a bid to further catch bettors' imagination ahead of what is annually the biggest week of horseracing in the UK, Oddschecker (operated by FairPlay Media) and B2B iGaming provider Low6 has debuted a never-seen-before horseracing-themed bingo game. Prizes include two tickets to the Grand National, alongside a range of other race-related rewards. Adapted for horseracing, players receive a new bingo card filled with horses for each day of the festival. The aim is to reveal all the tiles, with some runners assigned higher values than others, as well as with points assigned to each runner depending on their likelihood of winning over the course of the week. Stuart Simms, Group GEO of FairPlay Sports Media, said: "This is the biggest week of the year for racing fans, and we're pleased to be working with Low-6 on Bet Bingo to give bettors an extra chance to win now and many more chances to land an edge in the future as a registered and engaged user. The British public loves racing, while bingo is a national pastime."

Unfair fit?

Dear Guy,

I play Bingo with three friends pretty much every Thursday night. We like to talk and crack jokes and bust on each other, because it makes it more fun for us than just sitting there playing Bingo. But there's a group of these women players there that hate us. They want us to clam up and sit there like zombies marking our Bingo cards and not say a single word. They've told us to "shut up" and I think they may even have complained about us to the people that run the Bingo.

We sit way off in the corner and nobody else seems to mind us, but this one group has a fit the minute we walk into the hall. Do you think this is fair?

— Bernie G., Illinois

Dear Bernie,

When it comes to Bingo, different people have different idea about what constitutes appropriate hall behavior. Some of them want the hall so quiet that you can hear an ant sneeze. Others like to be social and talk with friends while they play. As a result, there often will be clashes between the different groups.

What I tell people is that it is perfectly fine to have fun and socialize at Bingo no matter what your definition of that may be. But you also have to keep in mind that you are in a room full of people, and you must take others' feelings into consideration. Are you guys being too loud? Are you cracking jokes or talking at the same time a ball is being called? If you are, then I am afraid that you are asking for trouble—and that trouble will certainly come in the shape of people scolding you and lodging complaints about you to the folks in charge.

On the other hand, if you are being thoughtful to other players and attentive to the game, and these people who are complaining about you are simply grouches who have singled you out just to be difficult, then you have every right to complain about THEM to the manager and ask that they be told to get off your back. — Guy

“Good news! We’re not in the obits today!”

Veterans Post

Small punishments for scammers

What always stands out, at least to me, are the low penalties for the criminals who steal from veterans and the Department of Veterans Affairs. The number of scams seems to grow, and one wonders if it's because thieves don't perceive there to be much punishment if they should be caught.

An example: A veteran threatened to blow up a VA medical facility. He verbally told the crisis line and even identified the person he specifically wanted to kill and when. He was found and arrested for making threats and even made additional threats after the arrest. Now, he hasn't gone to court yet, but the evidence is pretty strong. Why, one wonders, would he only be in line for five short years in the slammer? Yes, there could be a hefty fine, but it's the time behind bars that would keep society safe.

Another example: There was the VA employee who stole prescription drugs that were mailed to VA patients. He knew where they were going, of course, since the drugs were shipped from the VA pharmacy and he therefore had the addresses. He and his pals would break into the mailboxes to steal the drugs, which he would sell for big profits. I think about cancer patients when I learn of something like this, cancer patients who need their drugs on time, not to mention the likely pain medications. The main thief in this scam only received a sentence of 42 months in prison; his scammer pals got sentences of 12 and 35 months. Not long enough, not nearly long enough.

Then there was the guy who convinced everyone that he was blind and therefore 100% disabled and needed some benefits. Turned out he had both a drivers license and a gun carry permit and could see well enough for those activities. Not so blind after all, but his punishment was a few years of probation and some cash restitution.

So where is the deterrence to thieves and scammers when the punishment is so light?

Cheesecake redux

Dear Annie,

I was reading the Bingo Bugle some years ago and came across the Italian Cheesecake recipe, made it—loved it, but have since misplaced it. Can you run it again for me, please? —Janet in Georgia

Dear Janet,

Here’s a reprint of the recipe. Enjoy—again! —Annie

ITALIAN CHEESECAKE

1 pound ricotta cheese

1 pound cream cheese

1 ½ cups granulated sugar

4 eggs (beaten)

½ lemon

1 teaspoon vanilla

3 tablespoons flour

3 tablespoons corn starch

¼ pound melted butter

1 pound sour cream

2 cups fresh fruit (blueberries, strawberries, cranberries, etc)

Non-stick cooking spray

Preheat the oven at 325 degrees. Using a large bowl, combine the ricotta cheese, cream cheese and sugar. Mix well with an electric beater. Add the eggs and mix. Juice the lemon half. Add the lemon juice, vanilla, flour, corn starch, butter and cream to the mixture. Mix well together. Spray a spring form pan (at least 9- to 10-inches wide) with non-stick cooking spray. Bake for one hour. Then turn off the oven and leave the cheesecake in the oven for two more hours. Remove and serve or refrigerate for later use. Garnish each piece with fresh fruit. Serves 10 to 12 people.

Dear Aunt Bingo

by Bonnie Mitchell

More dough for Bingo!

Dear Aunt Bingo,

Last evening, I was arriving to Bingo with my friends and saw that a lot of cars pulling into the parking lot had only one occupant: the driver.

My friends went on ahead while I stayed in the parking lot to see how many more cars would drive in with just one passenger. I was startled to see that more than half of the cars arrived that way.

When I went inside the hall, there were very few people sitting and playing Bingo alone. Almost everyone was sitting with one or more Bingo buddies, which meant that although these people played Bingo together, it didn't occur to them to travel to Bingo together as well.

This is a terrible waste of fuel and has a bad impact on the environment. Would you please ask your readers to consider carpooling with their Bingo buddies in the future? It will save them money, and also help the planet. — California Tree Girl, via e-mail

Dear Tree Girl,

I'm glad you wrote in on this subject. With gasoline costing more than ever, it is really a wise fiscal move for players to think about carpooling to Bingo—or any other outing that requires travel by car.

Online, you can find a calculator that shows how much money you save by traveling with others instead of alone when motoring around town at <https://www.rideshare.com/easy-commute/commuter-savings-calculator/>. Depending on distance, you could save $1,000 or more per year in gas and auto maintenance by carpooling. Just imagine all the extra Bingo you could be playing with that spare cash! —Aunt Bingo

Ask Dr. Roach Hand washing

We're told to wash our hands with soap and water for 20 seconds to kill the COVID-19 virus. How long should we wash our hands to kill bacteria and other viruses? — C.C.

ANSWER: 20 seconds is the right amount of time for bacteria and viruses. An alternative is an alcohol-based handrub, which is fast and effective. Of course, you should wash your hands before and after eating — and after using the restroom. Bacterial spores cannot be easily killed, but they are effectively washed off with soap and water. In cases where spores are a concern (Clostridioides difficile is a big one), then handwashing is essential, as alcohol is ineffective.

Dr. Roach regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but will incorporate them in the column whenever possible. Readers may email questions to ToYourGoodHealth@med.cornell.edu.

- Save power with this tip: Use cold water to wash towels and jeans. Then hang them to dry — preferably outside, but on an inside line is OK, too. When they are mostly dry, pop them in the dryer on air dry to fluff up. Towels and jeans take the longest to dry in the clothes dryer, and use a lot of electricity.

How to tap underutilized burial benefits for veterans

Dear Savvy Senior,

What types of funeral benefits are available to old veterans? My 83-year-old father, who has Alzheimer's disease, served during the Vietnam War in the 1960s. — Planning Ahead

Dear Planning,

Department of Veterans Affairs' (VA) National Cemetery Administration actually offers a variety of underutilized burial benefits to veterans as well as their spouses and dependents.

Most U.S. veterans (both combat and non-combat) who didn't receive a dishonorable discharge are eligible for burial benefits. To verify your dad's discharge, you'll need a copy of his DD Form 214 "Certificate of Release or Discharge from Active Duty." If you don't have it, you can request online at Archives.gov/veterans.

Here's a rundown of some of the different benefits that are available to veterans that die a nonservice related death.

Military Cemetery Benefits

If your dad's eligible and would like to be buried in one of the 155 national or 119 state, territory or tribal-operated cemeteries (see VA.gov/find-locations), the VA provides a number of benefits at no cost to the family, including: a gravesite; opening and closing of the grave and perpetual gravesite care; a government headstone or marker; a United States burial flag that can be used to drape the casket or accompany the urn; and a Presidential Memorial Certificate.

If your dad is cremated, his remains will be buried or inurned in the same manner as casketed remains.

But be aware that funeral or cremation arrangements and costs are not taken care of by the VA. They are the responsibility of the veteran's family, but some veteran's survivors may be eligible for burial allowances.

The VA also offers a memorial web page called the Veterans Legacy Memorial for any veteran buried in a national, state, territorial or tribal cemetery. This allows families to post pictures and stories of their loved one online as a way to remember and honor their service.

If you're interested in this option, the VA has a pre-need burial eligibility determination program to help you plan ahead before your dad passes. See VA.gov/burials-memorials/pre-need-eligibility or call the National Cemetery Scheduling Office at 800-535-1117.

Private Cemetery Benefits

The VA also provides benefits to veterans buried in private cemeteries. If your dad chooses this option, the VA benefits include a free government headstone or grave marker, or a medallion that can be affixed to an existing privately purchased headstone or marker; a burial flag; and a Presidential Memorial Certificate.

Funeral or cremation arrangements and costs are again the responsibility of the family, and there are no benefits offered to spouses and dependents that are buried in private cemeteries.

Military Funeral Honors

Another popular benefit available to all eligible veterans buried in either a national or private cemetery is a military funeral honors ceremony. This includes an honor guard detail of at least two uniformed military persons, folding and presenting the U.S. burial flag to the veteran's survivors, and the playing of Taps.

The funeral provider you choose will be able to assist you with all VA burial requests. Depending on what you want, certain forms may need to be completed which are always better to be done in advance.

For a complete rundown of burial and memorial benefits, eligibility details and required forms visit Cem.va.gov.

Burial Allowances

In addition to the burial benefits, some veteran's survivors may also qualify for a $948 burial allowance and $948 for a plot to those who choose to be buried in a private cemetery. And $231 for a headstone or grave marker allowance. To find out if your dad is eligible or to apply, see VA.gov/burials-memorials/veterans-burial-allowance.

Paw's Corner

by Sam Mazzotta

DEAR PAWS: My little dog Barnsey is quite a barker for a terrier, but for the past several days his bark has been very hoarse. He sometimes snorts or sneezes, too. I make sure he has plenty of water, but I'm not sure what else to do. It doesn't seem to be getting better. — Faye H., Hartford

DEAR FAYE: Chronic hoarseness when barking can have several different causes, and the veterinarian can better evaluate him to see what's happening.

Laryngitis is a common diagnosis, but it's important to figure out the cause. A bacterial or viral infection may be the culprit, or gastroesophageal reflux.

Less common causes are masses or tumors growing on or near the dog's larynx, or other conditions affecting the larynx. These may require surgery.

The vet will evaluate Barnsey to see if he has an infection, acid reflux, or if the hoarse barking has another cause. They'll then be able to recommend an effective treatment.

If acid reflux is the suspected culprit, the vet may recommend changes to his feeding schedule and the amount of food at each meal. You can also try different varieties of dog food.

Little expenses that add up

“But it’s only...” is a phrase I’ve come to dislike. It always involves money and people who don’t understand living on reduced income.

“But it’s only twenty dollars a month,” said the one who was signing up for the new program at the rec center and trying to convince others to do the same. “But it’s only an extra fifty dollars a month,” said the one who was purchasing a package of extra TV cable channels and encouraging the rest of us to do the same. “But it’s only...,” said the one who happily signed up for a year-long membership at a certain big box warehouse, until we stopped her in mid-phrase.

“But it’s only” tends to add up when we calculate all the additional expenses that have come as a result of the increase in prices of, well, everything.

Here are two ways I’ve managed to shave some dollars off the amount that goes out each month.

The car insurance company gave me a hefty discount when I inquired about combining auto and homeowners insurance under one umbrella. The savings really added up, even though it meant leaving a company I’d been with for decades that did not offer a seniors discount.

I contacted every company I deal with, and three of them offer seniors discounts, which I’d never suspected.

Sometimes all you have to do is ask.

Talk

Playing poker
out of position is difficult

I recently played a hand in a $3,500 buy-in poker tournament that demonstrates a tricky situation that many players approach incorrectly.

Early on Day 2 with blinds at 1,500/3,000 with a 3,000 big blind ante, a somewhat tight, aggressive kid raised to 7,000 from second position. The player in fourth position and the button called, and I decided to call 4,000 more out of my 125,000-effective stack from the big blind with the 9s6s9. While it certainly was not a great hand, calling from the big blind with suited gappers when getting amazing pot odds is usually a good idea. If you fold too often from the big blind, you will be easily exploited by your aggressive opponents.

The flop came Qc7s2s giving me a flush draw. I checked because I will have no leading range on this board that should be good for the initial raiser. The initial raiser bet 18,000 into the 32,500 pot. Only the button called. At this point, I thought the initial raiser must have a reasonably strong hand to continuation-bet into three players, even on this somewhat dry board. I assumed the button would call with most of his one-pair hands as well as his flush draws. I had 118,000 left in my stack. So, what should I do?

Folding is out of the question unless both opponents are thought to be extremely tight because, even though I could be crushed by a better flush draw, most of the time my draw will be live.

When you have a draw and are getting decent immediate pot odds, calling is rarely a mistake. If I was facing a larger bet, perhaps 26,000 into the 32,500 pot, calling would become a worse option. The main problem with calling is that if I hit my draw on the turn, I will have a difficult time extracting value because I am out of position and I will not have the nuts. Notice that if I improve to a flush and lead into my opponents and face a raise, my flush will shrivel into a bluff catcher. If I check and it checks through, I have to dodge another spade on the river. If someone bets the turn, I can only check-call, again having to dodge a spade. Playing draws from out of position is difficult!

Raising small, perhaps to 44,000, is not a good idea because it will frequently induce my opponents to call, which may induce them to call my small turn all-in shove with an overly wide range. When you have a junky draw and decide to play it aggressively, you want to ensure you can make your opponent's fold.

Going all in seems like a reasonable option, especially if I can make my opponents fold marginal top pairs and better flush draws. Going all in to some extent ensures that most of the time when I get called my outs will be live.

After some thought, I decided that going all in would lead to the best result for me. The initial raiser called with pocket sevens for the middle set, and I was out of the tournament when the Qs came on the turn, completing my flush, but also his full house. After discussing this situation with a few of my friends, I now think calling the flop bet is ideal, mainly because I am getting decent pot odds to see one more card and it decreases the odds I go broke. Minimizing the odds you go broke is a skill you must master if you want to succeed at poker tournaments. Although I gave myself the best chance to win this specific pot, I also opened the door to go broke, which lead to disaster this time.
