Lucy is the 8 month old daughter of our Music teacher, Katie Angerer and her husband Charles Roe. Lucy was diagnosed with Aicardi Syndrome, an extremely rare seizure disorder that affects only girls, when she was just 5 months old. In addition to the seizures, girls with AS can experience developmental and learning delays and vision problems. Like other syndromes, AS is scaled on a spectrum, with girls going from very mild to very severe. Medication and early intervention programs can dramatically improve a girl's prognosis.

Lucy is responding to the medication and started physical and occupational therapy this summer. The fund helps to defray Lucy's medical bills and also goes to the Aicardi Syndrome Foundation to aid in their research on the disorder.
