

What's new and free on the Web

Greetings! It's good to be back. This month we are going to search out some free patterns and ideas for some spooky sewing. Halloween will be upon us before we know it and if you are a fan of that holiday or have young children or both there are many pretty quick and free ideas out there.

mondaymorningdesigns.com has a cute Pumpkins and Stars mini quilt pattern.

polkadotchair.com has a large group of Halloween patterns although some require a purchase, but there is a free tutorial for the Quilted spiderweb table topper i showed on Saturday, check out this site its FULL of good stuff.

BearCreek Quilting Company has a free quilt pattern called Under a Spell that is worth a look.

The Patchwork Pumpkin Block I did in orange and white is a free pattern from diaryofaquilter.com by Amy Smart. Lots of great stuff here too.

Check out the Jolly Jabber blog at Fat Quarter Shop for many good ideas. It takes a little digging but look for the Bats and Boos quilt along from 2021.

Canton Village Quilt Works has a cute applique Candy Corn Block if you like Applique.

The bat block I shared was from centerstreetquilts@wordpress.com.

Hope you find some of this fun and useful. Happy Fall Y'all!
