Read more: At the same time Congressional anti-gunners are pushing what Rep. Jim Jordan (R-Ohio) calls a "hodgepodge of bills" dubbed the "Protecting Our Kids Act," a new poll is saying more American voters think mental health is more to blame for mass shootings than access to firearms.

Rasmussen's new survey might have some bearing on that meeting, and the debate that will certainly unfold in the days ahead. According to the veteran polling firm, "40% of Likely U.S. voters believe mental health is more to blame for mass shootings by young men in America, while 30% blame access to firearms.

"Ten percent (10%) think family problems are more to blame for mass shootings," Rasmussen added, "while another 10% blame social media. Only four percent (4%) think school problems are more to blame.

One significant revelation from the Rasmussen poll is that, "President Joe Biden's strongest supporters are most likely to blame firearm access for mass shootings."

"Among voters who Strongly Approve of Biden's job performance as president," Rasmussen reported, "59% say access to firearms is more to blame for such shootings. By contrast, among those who Strongly Disapprove of Biden's performance, only six percent (6%) blame firearms access and 63% think mental health is more to blame."

June's Shooting Drill

The last few years I have provided many resources for Dry Firing practices due to the higher cost of ammo and the lack of availability. Now that that availability has come back, I'll start posting some shooting drills everyone should attempt.

This month we will start concentrating on recoil management. The focus is what happens when we focus strictly on the sights and what they are doing as we adjust our grip. Get into the best version of your grip and stance. Tight grip, no pressure from the strong hand thumb, thumbs high or forward for the semi-automatics, and crossed or down for revolvers. Stance should be set with the strong side foot slightly to the rear of the support side foot. Get aggressive. After shooting a string of 5-7 rounds, how did it feel? How far did the sights travel and how much control did you have? Adjust small things starting with your hand position. Repeat. Adjust your foot position. Repeat. Adjust your point of balance or your head position. Repeat. Knowing how to diagnose our own shooting starts with knowing what we are doing.

Devil No Longer Hiding in Details of Gun Control...and He's a Democrat Ammoland Inc. Posted on June 9, 2022 by Dave Workman Please click on the link to read the full article.

Once again in the aftermath of a high-profile tragedy involving the psychopathic misuse of a firearm, one political party is at the forefront of efforts to penalize all gun owners while, according to gun rights activists, also exploiting the crime to erode rights protected by the Second Amendment.

One look at popular opinion polls—Rasmussen and Gallup provide good examples—and it is easy to understand why Democrats, who used to be known as the “party of gun control,” are now more quickly identified as the “party of gun prohibition.”

Speaking of New York, the state government has been dominated by Democrats for decades. The state’s onerous concealed carry permit law could be overturned at any moment by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Gallup recently polled Americans on guns, learning in the process, “Republicans were largely satisfied with gun laws in January (62%), while 21% were dissatisfied and preferred that they be more strict. At the same time, 20% of Democrats were satisfied, and 71% were dissatisfied and wanted laws to be more strict.”

Only one party is prominent when it comes to proposals about so-called “gun reform” and “gun safety” laws, which invariably focus on restricting the rights of honest gun owners. This pattern is likely to be a major factor in the outcome of the Nov. 8 midterm elections.

1.1 MILLION: MAY GUN SALES NUMBERS 3RD HIGHEST ON RECORD Guns.com Article 06/03/2022 02:09 AM By: CHRIS EGER

A reoccurring theme on gun sales on a per month basis for 2022 is that most of the months tend to be the 3rd highest of its relative month as far as records.

The unadjusted number of 2,272,187 checks conducted through the Federal Bureau of Investigation’s National Instant Criminal Background Check System for last month is the third-highest logged since the system was established over two decades ago, only bested by those seen in 2021 and 2020, years fueled by urban unrest and the uncertainty that came with a nationwide pandemic.

When the figures are adjusted — removing data for gun permit checks and rechecks by states which use NICS for that purpose — the latest total stands at 1,174,791, according to the National Shooting Sports Foundation, the trade organization for the U.S. gun industry. While this number is an 11.3 percent decrease when compared to the May 2021 NSSF-adjusted NICS figure of 1,324,419, it is by far the third strongest May in the NICS system's 23-year history.

The most important takeaway from that is that last May marks 34 straight months that background checks for the sale of a firearm exceeded 1 million.
