Informed Consent For Upper Chest/Breast Massage

In the course of a massage treatment there are times when it becomes necessary to perform a massage in the upper chest/breast region. These times are generally related to upper back, neck and shoulder pain and discomfort. Many times the discomfort on the neck and shoulders is due to chronic bad posture or repetitive use of the muscles, such as driving or working with the computer. Massage on certain muscles may alleviate the tension of these muscles which allow these areas to return to its normal position. General improvement of lymphatic flow in the upper body, after breast augmentation, any scar work, wire bra congestion, and pregnancy issues are some other considerations.

The reason that I am attempting this massage is to feel better physically and the remove the cellular wastes from
