

Northwest Suburban Integration School District

Invites you to a virtual Inter-District Partnership (IDP) Meeting

Wednesday, November 4, 2020; 8:30 a.m. - 11:30 a.m.

Digging deeper into the arrival of black people into this country, and the WHY of how they got here, is scary for some to share, and even avoided by others. There are great stories to tell about black people before slavery and even greater stories to tell about the contributions black people have made to math, science, written language and education.

Some history shared during this workshop will feel good, some will hurt, but, it is important that these stories (and more) are told. However you decide to share, take the time to explore our new kits, ask questions, learn something new... Overall, allow your black students (and their peers) to see the positive history of their ancestors and their existence.

Black Experience Kits

OUTCOMES

- You will be provided with ways to add African American history to your classroom
- Engage students in conversations about the history and contributions of black people, conversations about current events, and moving beyond the single “safe” stories of slavery.
- You will be provided with resources that allow students to learn about the history of slavery.
- Through these kits, you will learn ways to acknowledge the past and pain of the African American people and learn ways to work towards moving forward and healing TOGETHER.
