■ 32nd Annual Bingo Bugle Cruise

First Time Bingo Cruiser Becomes Grand Champ

One spring afternoon, Connie and Jim Stout of Sparks, Nevada, were relaxing at home watching television.

They flipped to the Game Show Network and caught an episode of one of GSN's most popular programs—America Says—a studio game show in which two teams guess answers and earn cash by filling in blanks on survey questions. The team that banks the most money after three rounds heads to a bonus round to see if they can guess even more answers and win up to $15,000.

“For this episode, there was a team called the Bingo Ladies,” says Connie, “and when the host of the show asked them what they would do if they won, they said they were going to pool their winnings and take a Bingo cruise.”

The ladies eventually won the game, but failed to capture the $15,000 grand prize, which of course was a shame. What they were able to capture, however, was Connie's interest in a Bingo cruise, which she had never heard of before and sounded like a fun vacation.

“We enjoy gaming—my husband likes the slots—but we aren't huge Bingo fans,” says Connie. “We do find playing Bingo a lot of fun, though. Particularly we like to go to local casinos that offer Birthday Bingo, which is free Bingo during your birthday month.”

Big Bingo fans or not, Connie couldn't shake the idea of trying a Bingo cruise, and went online to see what she might find. She quickly came across the Bingo Bugle's 31st Annual World Championship Bingo Tournament & Gaming Cruise and called the toll-free number to learn more.

“Between what I read online and learned from Roxanne (the Bingo Bugle's Cruise Specialist), it sounded perfect,” Connie says. “Unfortunately, Jim and I wanted an Ocean Suite, and they were sold out. It was disappointing. We decided to skip the 2019 cruise and go the following year.”

As luck would have it, however, a day later there was a cancellation, resulting in an Ocean Suite becoming available, and Roxanne immediately contacted the Stouts with the good news. “We grabbed it!” Connie says.

The Stouts had been on a handful of cruises before joining the World Championship Bingo Tournament & Gaming Cruise and had a good idea of what to expect. “This cruise far surpassed what we'd experienced before,” Connie says. “Carnival does an amazing job. We loved the suite, the food was fantastic, and we had a lot of fun when we went ashore at the ports.”

But the highlight, of course, was the World Championship Bingo Tournament.

The very first day, Connie won $1,200 on a Double Postage Stamp game. “I was kind of shocked,” Connie says. “Typically, my husband is the lucky one, so when they gave us our packs, I always let him choose first.”

Connie's luck continued into day two, when she won another $1,200 with the Big Diamond. Then, on the last day of the tournament, she scored $1,200 more on the Kite game. “That game was just amazing,” Connie laughs. “They called seven numbers and I had every one. The winner was I-26 and it came up so fast that for sure I thought I'd heard it wrong and was going to be one of those false Bingo people.”

2019 Grand Champion

The World Championship Bingo Tournament & Gaming Cruise Grand Champion for 2019 is Connie Stout of Sparks, Nevada! Connie won three regular tournament session games (for a total of $3,600 in cash) that catapulted her into the winner's circle, where she walked away with an additional $5,000 in cash and a free cruise for two on the Bingo Bugle's 2020 World Championship Cruise. Join Connie on the 2020 cruise as she defends her title, and vies for over $100,000 in cash prizes, while sailing the Caribbean aboard Carnival Breeze.

But Connie had heard right, scored her third Bingo of the tournament, and with a total of $3,600 in prize money became the 2019 Bingo Grand Champion. As Tournament winner, Connie was awarded an additional $5,000 cash and free passage for two on the 2020 Tournament Cruise.

“I still find it hard to believe,” she says. “I really am one of those people who never wins anything. This has been an indescribable experience!”

The 32nd Annual World Championship Bingo Tournament & Gaming Cruise promises to be equally exciting for next batch of lucky players. Setting sail from Fort Lauderdale, Florida, on November 7, 2020, the Tournament Cruise will explore the eastern Caribbean with stops at four island destinations—St. Maarten, St. Kitts, San Juan and Grand Turk.

Between ports, this eight-day high seas adventure will feature marathon Bingo, Blackjack and Slots tournaments, $100,000 in cash prizes, and the awarding of free passage for two on Cruise '21 to the top winner—not to mention the coveted title of Bingo Grand Champion!

The World Championship Bingo Tournament & Gaming Cruise remains the premiere gaming cruise vacation. Learn more about this unique gaming getaway by visiting bingobugle.com/cruise or phoning the Bingo Bugle Cruise Hotline, 888-352-2464.

Equine Sanctuary

The Pennsylvania Equine Rescue and Retirement Foundation (PERRF) of Monaca, Beaver County, Pennsylvania, recently hosted a Holiday Cash Bash & Bingo Extravaganza, with proceeds going toward PERRF's rescue efforts, equine assistance program and other activities. The reservations-only, sold out event was held at a local fired department social hall at a cost of $30 per person. Participants enjoyed an extravagant dessert table and were entertainment by a local DJ as they played eight Bingo games for a chance to win prizes and cash, and compete for mystery boxes, auction items and raffle prizes. PERRF is dedicated to rescuing slaughter-bound, abused and neglected horses, providing rescue, rehabilitation and permanent sanctuary to equines in peril. The group also advocates for and educates about the humane treatment of horses by offering adults and families the opportunity to develop and nurture relationships through horse-centered activities.

from the Greenville, North Carolina, Daily Reflector's recent print edition Bingo game. The fun began when all home delivery subscribers received a unique Bingo card in their Sunday papers. Each day following, a number was drawn and published in the paper until a grand-prize winner was declared. There were nine ways to win: first diagonal, first horizontal, first vertical, first to win designated letters, first to cover all four corners, and first to get a coverall—which won the $2,000 top prize.

PTO Turns to Bingo

A Bingo fundraiser organized by the Parent-Teacher Organization of Madison Elementary School in Madison, West Virginia, raised more than $20,000 to benefit students. Most Bingo prizes were donated and roughly 550 players attended the event. The money will go toward funding field trips, computer software, extra classroom supplies, and the school's sound system. It will also funds arts projects, a math field day and the school's annual academic bowl. This marked the fourth year of the event, which was begun after area schools experienced major budget cuts, requiring creative alternatives to generate new funding while fostering community involvement with the school.

Shellie Myers won the $500 Afternoon Bonanza at West St. Paul Bingo Palace.

Black Light Bingo

The Heartland Rotary Club's annual Black Light Bash Bingo was held at the Marion Knights of Columbus Hall in Marion, Illinois. The event benefitted the Salvation Army of Southern Illinois. Under the purple haze of black lights, players dressed up in glowing hats and t-shirts and daubed their Bingo sheets with glowing daubers as they competed for more than $1,000 in cash prizes. Pull tabs, a 50/50 drawing, a ticket auction and a cash bar were also part of the festivities. The Salvation Army used the funds from the event to support various services including its food pantry, and to provide financial assistance to struggling families by helping with utility bills.

Bingo Machine Blues

Hi Guy,
I always enjoy reading about some of the issues that you write about in your column and wanted to share something that I just experienced and ask for your comments.
Last Friday, I went to my local Bingo hall where I have played Bingo for many years. I was in line to purchase my Bingo machine and paper. The lady in front of me asked for a machine with five packages on it, and the cashier walked over to the counter where the machines are stacked.
There were three machines in the stack, he lifted the top machine and gave her the middle one. I noted this, as I always purchase five packages on the machine, and thought: “That should have been my machine...I hope it is not a winner!”
Well, the bonus coverall came up, and indeed the lady won $500 as the consolation prize since she won in more than the specified minimum numbers for the jackpot. She happened to be sitting opposite me at the next table, which really made it very noticeable!

Obviously, I have bad feelings over this. I know the Bingo manager casually, as well as the cashier, but would not mention it to them as I do not want any bad feelings with them. I certainly love to play Bingo there as it is close to my home.
Interestingly, I have tried to purchase Bingo paper from floor workers both at this hall and larger casino halls, but they do not want to sell paper when you walk up to them. They say they will get to you and need to sell the paper in the order of their route around the floor—that it causes problems with players if they see a change in the sequence. — Disappointed in Phoenix, Arizona

Hi Disappointed,
This is a very interesting situation and one that in all my years penning this column I don’t believe anyone has ever written in about.
To summarize your complaint, you feel that the machine given to the other player should have been yours because it was the second in a stack of three and you were second in line after this player. But for some reason the cashier pulled the second machine from the stack and gave it to the woman in front of you, and she won $500 with it.
The moment the cashier picked up the machine, you say you felt it should have been yours. When the woman won, you believed, and still believe, that she had been awarded your prize money.
You further underscore your point by noting that when floor workers sell Bingo paper, they try to only sell it in sequence following a specific route through the hall—your point being that the Bingo machines were in a stack of three and should also only be distributed in sequence, and if that had been done, you would have received your machine and won your $500.

First off, let me say that you would have made an excellent attorney! You built your case based on the facts as you saw them (how the machines were being handed out), as well as providing expanded information (how floor workers sell Bingo paper) to further bolstered your case. Nice job!
To me, the question here is: Does it make a difference which machine you get?
My answer is no. Bingo machines are like electronic viewers that display and track your virtual Bingo paper. It is not the machine itself that determines your cards. Your cards get loaded into the general system once you’ve bought into the game and you monitor your cards through the handheld.
The woman in line in front of you paid the fee and got her five packs, which were coded into the machine. You were next, paid your fee and got a different handheld to view your packs.
The machine the cashier skipped may have been dirty, damaged, old...there could be any number of reasons why he took the next one instead. The important thing is, it really doesn’t make a difference which machine you get—unless you feel one machine is “luckier” than another, which is whole different issue! — Guy with an alarm. The phone app can even hook up with an Apple smartwatch and let you know if your heart rate is too fast.

So why does this make me nervous? Let me count the ways.
• You’ll need an iPhone to access the Health app. At this writing, the cheapest one is $450, for an iPhone 8.
• The software will periodically connect your phone to the various medical servers and bring in any new records.
• To keep your medical data safe, you’ll need to use Face ID, a passcode or Touch ID, whether or not you want it. Are you certain that no one else knows your passcode?
• The app includes an unencrypted emergency Medical ID card that EMTs (and anyone else) can use to check your health info.
• We don’t know that third-party provider apps are safe.

Check your iPhone if you have one. The default setting is to track your walking distance, flights climbed and steps taken. You might have years of data on your phone without knowing it.

Dear Dream Catcher Dream Dog Goes Long

Dear Dream Catcher
In my dream I am playing in the backyard with my dachshund Pistol. Everything was normal until a crack of thunder brought a sudden downpour of rain. But instead of running indoors my dog and I continued to play with his toy ball. But then as the rain really came down hard I noticed that Pistol started growing. Not in height but in length! I watched in disbelief as he stretched and stretched and stretched until he was about twelve feet long. I wasn’t really disturbed by this change because for some reason it seemed normal, and when I picked Pistol up to take him inside he wrapped himself around me like a friendly snake. And that is when I woke up. What is this about please? — Sandy M., San Diego, CA

Dear Sandy
Animal transformations within a dream are generally a sign that our relationship with our pet is changing. And when that relationship changes all of our relationships change too. For many folks the love affair they have with their pets is stronger and more meaningful than many of their human connections. Your ardor for Pistol and his expansion in size might indicate that your capacity for affection and love is willing to go to new lengths. This is made emphatic with the rain that falls in your dream. For many of us, the rain (unless it is tumultuous like in a hurricane) is associated with growth, nourishment and refreshment; and this might be why you did not retreat into your home in the dream; instead, you and Pistol relished the magical moment together. — Dream Catcher

Dear Dream Catcher,
I don’t understand why people make such a big deal about dreams. It seems to me that dreams are simply the imagination working overtime after a person falls asleep. Why all the fuss about trying to understand a dream or determine if it has some secret meaning or influence? People should just relax and hope for a good night’s sleep. — Mark K., New York, NY

Dear Mark
The most profound insight I ever encountered about humankind’s exploration of dreams came from a psychologist by the name of James Hillman. In a nutshell Hillman explained that our fascination with dreams is related to our fear of mortality. Because dreams take place when our everyday consciousness has unplugged from the world, usually at nighttime, Hillman suggested a correlation between the absence of consciousness (that we associate with death) and that of the world of the dream.

Without going into too much detail, Hillman saw dreams as preparatory exercises for the moment when we die and enter a state that no one living has factual data about. Dreams allow us to become familiar with a world or condition that is completely foreign and unknown to human consciousness. True, various religions tell us what we will experience after we die, but despite someone’s faith and sincere belief, the instinctual part of our nature isn’t interested in theories or philosophies, our survival drive is only interested in staying alive. I’m hoping this is an interesting answer to your question. I decided to offer this thesis instead of the usual explanations about dreams being veiled wishes or supplying clues to parts of our character that are censored or sublimated. Although those ideas are fitting, too, I find Hillman’s proposal fresh, exciting and worth considering. — Dream Catcher

Massachusetts Man Wins Second $1 Million

A Massachusetts man has won his second $1 million lottery payout less than two years after drawing a lucky ticket for the first time. Rolf Rhodes, of Mendon, won the $1 million prize with a “$4,000,000 Instant Jackpot” instant game ticket. He chose the annuity option for his prize and will receive 20 annual payments of $50,000 before taxes. Rhodes won his first $1 million prize in the “Hit $1,000” $10 instant game in 2018. He opted to receive that prize in the form of a one-time payment of $650,000 before taxes. At press time, three $4 million prizes and seven additional $1 million prizes were still available in the $4,000,000 Instant Jackpot game.

YOUR LUCKY NUMBERS

LUCKY LOTTO NUMBERS

14 - 23 - 51 - 9 - 17 20

Horoscopes for January 2020

ARIES (MAR 21-APR 20): The year promises to be one that will dominate the history books for years to come, and we’ll need spiritual warriors like yourself to fan the flames of inspiration and truth-seeking. Leave no stone unturned. Meditate on the word power. What does it mean exactly? A hint: Power has everything do with one’s ability to take care of business, to get things done. Good luck!
Lucky Days: 2 - 19
Lucky Numbers: 7 - 29

TAURUS (APR 21-MAY 21): There arrives a time in life where a person is forced, by necessity, to rethink their most cherished beliefs. This is such a year for the bulls. With the rebel planet Uranus in your house of self throughout the year, you’re feeling decidedly un-Taurus like. You’re ready to rock, roll and rumble and goddess help anyone who gets in your way.
Lucky Days: 18 - 22
Lucky Numbers: 6 -38

GEMINI (MAY 22-JUN 21): If there’s a central theme for your New Year it is this: what belongs to me, and what belongs to another? This dichotomy touches not only your relationships, but also parts of yourself that are ready for reexamination. Ask yourself if your goals are your own or have you inherited them from your family? This questioning will propel major changes this year.
Lucky Days: 3 - 47
Lucky Numbers: 33 - 36

CANCER (JUN 22-JUL 22): OK, time’s up. The year ahead finds you hitchhiking on love’s highway looking for the perfect ride home. Shyness, and taking a back seat will no longer work. There is a longing in your heart to connect and rediscover the life-affirming joy of romance. The full moon on the 10th puts the quest into the spotlight.

Lucky Days: 10 - 24
Lucky Numbers: 9 - 16

LEO (JUL 23-AUG 23): You are sitting on so many wonderful plans and projects you’ve lost a sense of direction regarding their execution. The theme right now is about organization, scheduling, and facing the truth about how quickly time passes. This is the year to discipline yourself so you can experience the full breadth of your talents. The key is editing, and a slight adjustment to your high standards.
Lucky Days: 1 - 19
Lucky Numbers: 22 -58

VIRGO (AUG 24-SEP 23): The writer Austin Kleon tells us: “The computer brings out the uptight perfectionist in us—we start editing ideas before we have them.” Because your quick intellect will often jump the gun, your creative work ends up censored or corrected before it’s had time to gain traction. Your aim this year is to slow down and remember that a power larger than your perfectionist’s mind exercises ultimate control.
Lucky Days: 8 - 23
Lucky Numbers: 2 - 32

LIBRA (SEP 24-OCT 23): Has anyone ever told you to dig deep? What is it about your history, your family lineage, that’s created the person you are today? The year ahead is about lifting up the hood and exploring what really makes your engine hum. The full moon on the 10th reveals a key player on the job front who can help you get ahead.
Lucky Days: 6 - 27
Lucky Numbers: 41 - 51

SCORPIO (OCT 24th-NOV 22nd): In the year ahead consider how language defines your life in ways that might limit and restrain. Increase your vocabulary (there are books out there that can help you with this). When our mind has new words (concepts) to work with your potential for success increases, too. If you’d like to earn a degree or take night classes, follow that intuition.
Lucky Days: 10 - 28
Lucky Numbers: 4 - 15

SAGITTARIUS (NOV 23rd-DEC 21st): Somewhere in a hidden corner of your mind you believe that financial security might limit your freedom and independence. This seems like a strange equation, but it’s worth exploring to see if it’s true. I mention this because a major 2020 theme for you involves money management. It wouldn’t hurt to work with an adviser that can help you with this illusion. But give it your all and rewards will follow.
Lucky Days: 9 - 13
Lucky Numbers: 9 - 33

CAPRICORN (DEC 22nd-JAN 20th): Mark Twain told us that, “Nature knows no indecencies, humans invent them.” How do we get back to our natural state? And what does that imply? These questions should get your full attention in the New Year. A serious appraisal, lovingly administered, of habits and routines would be a place to start. Only you know when you are being indulgent in a way that doesn’t serve your best interest.
Lucky Days: 7 - 14
Lucky Numbers: 2 - 55

AQUARIUS (JAN 21st-FEB 19th): The year ahead is all about removing the dead weight and skeletons in your closet. This is your big chance to cut loose from emotionals that compromise your freedom. Start with rearranging how you invest time with others and then find yourself a group, or club, that supports hobbies or passions that inspire you. The more creative the people you surround yourself with the more satisfying the year will be.
Lucky Days: 5 - 17
Lucky Numbers: 34 - 46

PISCES (FEB 20th-MAR 20th): It’s strange to start a new year by revisiting events you’d like to put behind you, the breakdowns and breakthroughs that impacted you the most last year. But make the effort. Why? When you can make sense of those events in your head and your heart, you’re free to progress. The cosmos is asking you to pause this month and take this kind of inventory. Mission accomplished you’ll be on your way to a vibrant 2020.

by the state's gaming commission or gambling board or something like that.

Having such a regulator strikes me as a very good idea, because we are talking about games and money being exchanged and such a thing really requires monitoring. But I believe Indian Nations are considered separate from the states where they are located and for the most part govern themselves.

I would like to know, therefore, if Indian casinos are regulated by a commission or board or someone else who a person can contact if they have a complaint. — Amy Y., via email

Dear Amy:

According to the National Congress of American Indians, there are 566 federally recognized Indian Nations in the United States. The U.S. Constitution recognizes that Indian Nations are sovereign governments and possess the inherent powers of self-government. Treaties and laws have created a fundamental contract between Indian Nations and the United States: Indian Nations ceded millions of acres of land that made the United States what it is today, and in return received, among other guarantees, the right of continued self-government on their own lands.

Tribal self-government serves the same purpose today as it always has: ensuring that Indian Nations remain viable as distinct groups of people. Tribal cultures enrich American life, and tribal economies provide opportunities where few would otherwise exist. Tribal governments also provide basic infrastructure, including roads, bridges and public buildings and a broad range of governmental services on tribal lands, including education, law enforcement, judicial systems and environmental protection.

I assume that Bingo and other gaming on Indian Nation lands falls within this same area of self-government and self-regulation. As such, I believe that any complaints or concerns about their operation would have to be directed to the management team of the facility and to the leaders of the Nation. — Aunt Bingo

Who's In Charge?

Dear Aunt Bingo:

I have gotten a little frustrated by how a local Indian Nation Bingo is operated. I'm not saying that there's anything fishy going on—no cheating or anything like that—but I do feel that the games could be operated better, the staff could be more involved, and the people who run it could make more of an effort to make the games an enjoyable, professional, organized experience.

I remember reading in one of your articles about someone complaining about the rules not being enforced, or looking like they are being enforced for some players and not others, and you said that the games are monitored

YOU ASK THE SENIOR QUESTION

How to Create a Family Health Portrait

Dear Savvy Senior,
How do I go about making a family health history? Most of my relatives have died before age 65, so my doctor recently suggested I create a family history to help identify my own genetic vulnerabilities. — Approaching 50

Dear Approaching,
This is a very good idea. An accurate family health history remains one of the most important tools in keeping yourself healthy as you age, and the holidays when family members come together is a great time to do it. Here's what you should know, along with some tips and tools to help you create one.

Know Your Genes
Just as you can inherit your father's height or your mother's eye color, you can also inherit their genetic risk for diseases like cancer, diabetes, heart disease and more. If one generation of a family has high blood pressure, for example, it is not unusual for the next generation to have it too. Therefore, tracing the illnesses suffered by your relatives can help you and your doctor predict the disorders you may be at risk for, so you can take action to keep yourself healthy.

To create a family health history, you'll need to start by collecting some basic medical information on your first-degree relatives including your parents, siblings and children. Then move on to your grandparents, aunts, uncles and first cousins.

You need to get the specific ages of when they developed health problems like heart disease, cancer, diabetes, arthritis, dementia, depression, etc. If family members are deceased, you need to know when and how they died. If possible, include lifestyle information as well, such as diet, exercise, smoking and alcohol use. Some relatives may not want to share their medical histories, or they may not know their family history, but whatever information you discover will be helpful. One way to get information on a relative who has passed is a copy of their death certificate. This will list their cause of death and the age he or she died. To get a death certificate, contact the vital records office in the state where your relative died, or go to VitalChek.com. Or, if you were adopted, the National Foster Care & Adoption Directory Search (see ChildWelfare.gov/nfcad) may be able to help you locate your birth parents so you can get their medical history.

Helpful Tools
To get help putting together your family health history, the U.S. Surgeon General created a free web-based tool called "My Family Health Portrait" (see phgkb.cdc.gov/FHH/html) that can help you collect, organize and understand your genetic risks and even share the information with your family members and doctors. Another good resource that provides similar assistance is the Genetic Alliance's online tool called "Does It Run In the Family." At FamilyHealthHistory.org you can create a customized guide on your family health history for free.

Handling the Results
If you uncover some serious health risks that run in your family, don't despair. While you can't change your genes, you can change your habits to increase your chances of a healthy future. By eating a healthy diet, exercising and not smoking, you can offset and sometimes even neutralize your genetic vulnerabilities. This is especially true for heart disease, stroke, type-2 diabetes and osteoporosis. A family medical history can also alert you to get early and frequent screening tests, which can help detect other problems (high blood pressure, high cholesterol, and cancers like breast, ovarian, prostate and colon cancer) in their early stages when they're most treatable.

Now Here's a Tip!

- Frozen grapes make great ice cubes for white wine and punch. They are tasty straight out of the freezer, too.
- "Want to keep certain rooms off limits to wandering little ones? If you slip a baby sock over a doorknob, then secure it with a heavy-duty rubber band, it will keep toddlers out!" — E.R. in Ohio
- You might be tempted to reserve your silver flatware for special occasion use, but it can be used daily. If you do so, it will be less likely to tarnish and require special cleaning and polishing. Hand wash gently — never put silver in the dishwasher — and store in drawers lined with a tarnish proof cloth for best results.
- "If you eat one meal out in a restaurant each day, let it be lunch. The prices are typically lower, and the portions are not really smaller. It'll keep you going all day, and you can have a light meal or snack in the evening." — S.L. in Nevada
- Self-care tip: It's a great idea to set aside a bit of time before bed to think about your goals for the future or to review the successes and lessons learned of the day — or just to not think at all.

Tricky Hand Presents a Dilemma on the River

By Jonathan Little

In a recent $3,500-buy-in World Poker Tour event, I found myself totally lost on the river in a difficult hand.

Blinds were at 300-600 with a 600 big blind ante. Action folded to my opponent, a middle-aged guy who had yet to get out of line. He raised to 1,200. I called 600 more from the big blind with Qd Jh. I could have three-bet but didn't think he was likely to fold due to his strong preflop range, and I'm not a fan of playing hands that can be easily dominated from out of position.

The flop came Qh Qc 10s, giving me trips.

I checked, and my opponent made a continuation bet of 1,500. I check-raised to 3,900. I don't like check-calling here because it makes it tough to play a large pot on the turn and river. My opponent's range to call a turn or river check-raise is much tighter than his range to call a flop check-raise. He called 2,400 more.

The turn was the 8s. I bet 5,800. I thought that he would almost certainly fold small pairs, A-K and A-J at this point, and that he would continue with A-A, K-K, J-J, 8-8, K-J, J-9 or, of course, the missing Q. Betting was a better option than checking, because checking allows him to see a free card with his draws while also allowing him to value-bet when he has me beat. He called.

The river was the Ah. This was a terrible card for me because now A-A and K-J would beat me, and I wouldn't be able to get additional value from K-K. If I bet small, my opponent would call with all hands that beat me. He'd probably fold all pairs worse than an aces. If he had A-K or A-J (unlikely), he'd probably call a river bet.

If I bet large, perhaps 18,000, he'd inevitably call when I'm beat and fold when I'm ahead. He'd maybe even find a big fold with a hand such as Q-9 or A-K. I couldn't make a big bet without having seen an overly aggressive dynamic from my opponent, and he hadn't shown me that.

If I checked the river and my opponent made any sort of reasonable bet, would it be better to call or fold? If he could have A-K or A-J in his range, I should probably call, assuming he'd value-bet those hands. If he would check behind with those hands, I should be much more inclined to check-fold.

I also had to figure out if my opponent would turn hands such as K-K, J-J, J-10 or J-9 into a bluff on the river. If so, it would probably be best for me to check-call, which would likely be the only way to extract value.

This was a difficult spot because my hand looked like either trips or a straight, which would never fold, or a 10 that would fold to any bet. That means it would have been fairly crazy for my opponent to bluff with a hand such as K-K or J-J, because I don't think he could expect me to fold most of my possible hands to a bet.

If I checked and he bet, I would assume it was a value bet with a hand that could beat my trips, allowing me to safely fold. It's not often that you find a spot to easily check-fold trips on the river, but this had the potential to be one.

Unfortunately, I made the mistake of betting 7,500. My opponent happily called with J-9 and took down a big pot.

Video Poker: How to Deal with Losing Streaks

By Greg Tamburin

A reader asked me if I've ever had a losing streak playing video poker. Short answer: You bet I did. But here's how I deal with losing streaks.

It's been my personal experience that I lose on average about two out of every three video poker sessions, even though I've come out ahead ten out of the past twelve years that I've played video poker. You might find that strange, especially when the video poker games I mostly play have returns in the range of 99.5 to 99.7% (i.e., slightly less than 100%). That's because even when you play each hand perfectly, you can still expect to win nothing 54.54% of the time; furthermore, 21.46% of the time you will only break even (when you bet five coins and end up with a high pair, you only get back five coins). Therefore, 76% of the time, you will gain nothing because the big payoffs occur infrequently in video poker; therefore, you are more likely to have more losing than winning sessions, although in the long run, your winning sessions will wipe out most (but not all) of your losses and you will come close to the theoretical 99.54% return for the game (assuming you play every hand perfectly).

A friend of mine ran a computer simulation of fifty sessions of play, each session consisting of 7,200 hands (playing 9/6 Jacks or Better). (That's 360,000 hands, about a year's worth of play.) The result of the simulation was this: 16 sessions were winners (32%) and 34 were losers (68%). (This comes close to my experience of losing two out of every three playing sessions.)

Bottom line is this for video poker—even when you play every hand perfectly, in the short run you will experience losing streaks although in the long run you can win money (especially when you take advantage of a casino's cash back and bounce back promotions). So if losing sessions and streaks are inevitable, how do we muddle our way through them? Here are some tips based on my playing experience.

- Have the mindset going in that most of your sessions will be losers. This means that you shouldn't be upset when you lose. (That's a tough thing to get used to, but if losing stresses you out then you really shouldn't be playing video poker.)
- Have enough bankroll set aside to play video poker, especially when those inevitable losing streaks occur.
- Only play with discretionary funds that you don't need to pay bills. (If you play with the mortgage or rent money, the constant worry of how to pay your bills when losing streaks occur will be devastating.)

- Take full advantage of a casino's benefits and promotions. For example, schedule your playtime during promotions that multiply the points you earn for playing (the bigger the multiplier, the better). This extra money that you earn from being a member of a player's club will decrease the losses from playing. In fact, most smart video poker players (me included) play video poker games that we know in the long term will be losers (because our return is less than 100%, even playing perfectly) but the cash we get from casino promotions exceeds the losses from playing, leaving a net profit.
- Play video poker games that have a low variance, like 9/6 Jacks or Better, and 8/5 Bonus Poker. The lower the variance, the less bankroll you will need to weather those negative short-term losing streaks.
- If you find yourself in the midst of a losing streak, take a break, go home, and check your playing accuracy on a software trainer. (Be sure you are not making playing mistakes.) At the minimum, always take along a strategy card when you play so you will have the correct playing strategy for any hand readily available.

TOTALLY 80'S TOTALLY MURDER — A ROCKIN' RADICAL NIGHT OF MYSTERY

Jan. -Feb. 1 (Three Performances)
Doors at 5:30, dinner at 6:00 p.m.

Poison Ratenstein is in town for a killer concert, but his fans may be looking for a refund after this twisted tour turns tragic with a murder and a mystery to solve. This radical show could be super lame if no one can solve who was buggin' so we can all cool out and get the show started! Help the crowd and the detective figure out who ruined this totally tubular night, so everyone can, like, take a chill pill.

Make sure you are dressed with the times or someone may ask you to bag your head! Grab your most righteous '80s concert gear to rock out in style while you solve a crime with your friends. Jean jackets and spandex leggings, big hair, bangles, leg warmers, and ripped jeans will be all the rage at this rocking night of mystery. See you there!

DONNY AND MARIE BOW OUT

According to the Flamingo, long-time headliners Donny and Marie Osmond have ended their 11-year engagement. The brother-sister duo opened their show in 2008. At the time, the plan was that they would only be there for a six-week engagement. The duo was so successful that the contract kept being extended and extended. By the way, tickets for the final dozen-or-so performances were sold out long in advance. Some sites were selling them for $4,000.

VIRGIN COULD BUCK RESORT FEES

There are indications that when the former Hard Rock in Las Vegas re-opens as the Virgin Las Vegas Casino late next year, it could have zero resort fees. According to published reports, if that happens, the venue would be the first major casino without the fees. The last fees charged by the Hard Rock were over $40, slightly above average.

RUSSIAN-THEMED RESTAURANT CLOSES

It was in business for three decades, now the Red Square Russian restaurant in Mandalay Bay is closed. In making the announcement, MGM resorts failed to mention what will happen to the headless statue of Vladimir Lenin that once graced the front of the eatery. The restaurant opened when the casino did, in March of 1999.
