ARCHER'S UNWAVERING commitment to delivering large-firm expertise with small-firm attention, no matter the size of the client, has helped us grow into one of the largest and most trusted law firms in the Mid-Atlantic region. The eleven attorneys in Archer's Hackensack office, counted among the top lawyers in Bergen County, exemplify why Archer continues its long-standing tradition of being the "go-to" firm in the county, as well as the state and why we remain the "stay-with" firm among clients.

In serving an international, national and local client base, Richard Contant and Thomas Herten have collectively given advice to business clients for over 90 years. Mr. Herten has also consistently been honored as a Super Lawyer for business litigation. Lori Grifa, a member of Archer Public Affairs, the governmental affairs arm of the firm, provides strategic advice to clients who interact with governmental agencies. Nilufer DeScherer, Vice Chair of the firm's Real Estate and Banking Committee, represents regional banks, as well as Fortune 100 real estate clients. Michael Horn and Kimberly Capadona are recognized among the area's outstanding commercial and employment litigators. Andrew Fedde, a Diplomat in Municipal Law, is regularly sought out for land use projects and property tax appeals. Gianfranco Pietrafesa, a former Chair of the Business Law Section of the New Jersey State Bar Association, is one of the state's leading business lawyers, writer and lecturer. Gerald Escala, J.S.C. (Retired) is called on by lawyers throughout the state to employ his many years of experience on the Superior Court bench to mediate or arbitrate legal disputes. Andrew Cevasco and Eimi Figlio are each highly recognized for their counsel in estate planning and estate litigation.

These top lawyers represent the broad spectrum of expertise that Archer offers. Individually and collectively, Archer's lawyers take pride in their work, their profession and in their firm.
