Matt: Thanks for your analysis report. Your summary is clear and informative. Once again, you've made a great link between the article you read and some of the thinking you are doing in relation to your own research, and it is also nice that you are reflecting on your learning across classes in the program. You have reflected on your own positionality and have certainly engaged deeply with the content of the article. I appreciated your question this week and the invitation to your colleagues to reflect on the place of decolonizing methodologies in their scholarly, professional, and personal lives. Well done. 5/5
