Christ's Light Shines even through the Darkness of our World

Like me, I'm sure many of you experience "death fatigue" from hearing about all the events around the world in which large numbers of people are killed through terrorist acts. Many young people were killed at an Ariana Grande concert in Manchester and a large number of Republicans were shot at by someone who did not agree with their viewpoint. People are letting their anger escalate to the point they must kill people they don't even know! ISIS considers any Christian evil and deserving of death. The man who shot at the Republicans tried to kill them just because they were Republicans!

People are killing strangers just because of what they believe. I am pro-life, but I'm not going to go out and kill people who are "pro-choice" just because I don't agree with them! How can I be pro-life if I murder (not self-defense) someone?! These kinds of killings used to happen occasionally, but now can happen several times a week! Some people may want to give the age-old comment: "How can a loving God let all this happen?" If you read the Psalms from the Bible, you can read many comments venting this kind of frustration.

For example, Psalm 74 has the following statement: "How long, O God, is the enemy to scoff? Is the foe to insult your name forever? Why, O Lord, do you hold back your hand? Why do you keep your right hand hidden? Yet God is our king from time past, the giver of help through all the land."

It is not God who is bad, but mankind. God created us good and gave us free will so that we could choose to love Him. But we can also choose not to love Him, which is when sin comes about. We commit venial (less serious) sins all the time, but to murder someone is to plunge deep into mortal sin (separated from God). To murder someone just because of what they believe is beyond the pale as well.

We need to remember though, that just because the media tends to show violence more than good comforting stories. That doesn't mean there isn't more good in the world. There are kind acts all over the world that we never get to see on TV or see on the internet. Christ's light is still shining, but we need to know where to look for it. You can see it at Mass, in the birth of a new child, in the sacraments, in a family, and in the beauty of creation just to name a few.

Although we will have to endure terrorist acts for many years to come, we can take comfort that it will not last forever. For if we are blessed to make it to heaven, then all this evil and pain will be forgotten and we will bask in Christ's light forever! Praise be to God!!!

God Bless!!!

Fr. Chris
