Railroads Finally Take Action On 55th Ave. Crossing

First Steps Taken to Eliminate Eight Hazardous Level Crossings

Work will start this month on a reinforced concrete subway at 55th Avenue in Lachine to eliminate a level crossing where railway tracks cross the thoroughfare north of Metropolitan Boulevard. The subway is part of a plan for relocation of Canadian National Railway main line tracks and the elimination of eight level crossings in the City of Lachine.

Under the plan, the portion of C.N.R.'s present main line between Dorval and a point slightly east of Lachine Station will be removed. To replace it, the C.N.R. will take over the present C.P.R. main line between Dorval and Balantyne and is constructing a new line for the C.P.R. north of and parallel to the present line.

The subway, wide enough to carry six ballasted tracks, three for each railway on its deck, will be constructed in two stages to allow an uninterrupted flow of C.P.R. main line traffic. The section north of the present C.P.R. line will be built first and when it is completed, work will start on the section under the present set of tracks.

Embankments have already been made for the new C.P.R. line and track will be laid as the new subway is being constructed. The diversion will be in operation this fall.

MAYBE THEY'LL BE SERVING GREEN TEA AT ST. VERONICA'S NEXT THURSDAY, the Seventeenth of Ireland, but if they don't we can't say bad cess to them - for they're all lovely ladies and they'll be after honoring a great patron Saint. Here we see the collie's planning the St. Veronica's St. Patrick's Day Tea, which will be held at St. Veronica's School. Top row, left to right, we have Mrs. C. Raus, Mrs. J. Fortin, Mrs. W. Mueller and Mrs. T. McEwen, and seated same way are Mrs. N. Lechenes, Mrs. E. O'Connell and Mrs. G. Dolan. Wural

City Departments Integrated Into CD

Civil Defense in Dorval got a big lift last Saturday when the committee was told that 100 per cent cooperation would be forthcoming from all City Hall departments.

With such assurances, the CD committee can now plan freely. Plans will be concentrated on local disaster control of emergencies, and this would cover hurricanes, major fires, floods, plane crashes and every type of distress.

The happy CD turn of events came about Saturday at a special meeting, attended by Mayor John Pratt, City Manager Rene A. LeBlanc, City Engineer Julien Blanchard, Building Inspector Col. Innes Fraser and many others. All city departments will now be integrated into the civil defense setup, and Mr. St. Pierre, with Mr. Blanchard and members of their departments will soon undertake to attend the Federal Government CD courses at Amprion, Ontario.

In the public works department alone there is a personnel of 60 who will be available at any hour of the day or night for emergencies.

Ald. George Goodale told those in attendance that the CD committee will soon offer for Council approval the names of those who will head the various departments within the organization.

CFOX NEARLY READY

Gordon Sinclair's new Lakeshore radio station, CFOX, "hopes" to be on the air next Monday, but even with the whole staff virtually working around the clock to tie every last loose end into place, chances of a Monday premiere are strictly speculative.

CFOX's transmitter is now already testing and anyone tuning in 1470 will likely get a signal. The station's record library is now stocked, and studios are almost complete. Now all that remains is the matter of studio installations which usually take about 15 hours, and there is the further formality, once all is in readiness, of submitting a brief to Ottawa stating that the station is conforming to all technical stipulations as set forth in the license.

In any event, it won't be long now!

"Elmer" Flying At Half Mast

"The ELMER, the Safety Elephant" (he flies at half mast at Dorval Gardens School due to a traffic accident involving one of the school children.

"ELMER, feels badly when one of his little friends forgets for a few moments one of ELMER'S Safety Rules; in this instance, the first: 'Look both ways before you cross the street.'

During this season of high snowbanks and hazardous driving conditions, extra care must be taken to protect our little ones from the dangers of the road as not all the responsibility should be left to the children.

LAST WEEK'S SPACE IN THE DORVAL REPORTER would not permit full photographic coverage of the city's new police co-ambulance acquisition. This week, however, for those who have an eye for detail, we offer a rear open view of the fine new machine, with all paraphernalia prominently displayed. Everything is there to meet every accident emergency. Beauty, isn't it? Dixie Photo.

'Y' Swim Classes Start March 26th

The spring session of swimming instruction for boys and girls 8 to 12 years of age will commence on Saturday March 26th it was announced by the Lachine-Dorval YMCA. A total of 10 weekly instructional periods will be held each Saturday at the Westmount YMCA swimming pool.

The girls classes will be held from 2:00 to 3:00 p.m. and the boys instruction will be held from 3:00 to 4:00 p.m. Qualified instructors are in charge of the program which includes non-swimmers, beginners and advanced swimmers.

Lessons will take place twice each week at the Westmount Y.M.C.A. and the first session of ten 1/2 hour lessons will commence on Wednesday, March 30. Classes will be held on Wednesdays from 6:30 to 7:00 p.m. and 7:00 to 7:30 p.m.

Registration for the classes will commence on Monday, March 14 and each group will have a limited enrolment. Chartered buses will provide transportation from Dorval to the Westmount 'Y' and return. Parents wishing further information are invited to call the 'Y' at ME-7-2511.

Playground Leaders In Demand

Planning is now underway for the twenty-one summer playgrounds which were operated by the Lakeshore Welfare Services for the Lakeshore communities last year. The announcement comes from George Senyk, Director of Recreation of this Red Feather agency, who states it is possible that they may be as many as twenty-five playgrounds this year.

This agency will operate public play areas in the City of Pointe Claire and the Town of Beaconsfield. Although the City of Dorval will run its own playgrounds under its new Department of Parks and Recreation, Mr. Senyk will be recruiting and training their staff for 1960 as well as for the other municipalities.

Although many of last year's staff are returning, there will be some new playleaders needed. Interested young Lakeshore residents should contact Mr. Senyk at the Lakeshore Welfare Services office, Apt. 4, 15 Cartier Ave. Pointe Claire, for further information and application forms. Applicants must be at least 17 years of age. Younger people will be accepted and placed as volunteer leaders under an "in-service training" plan. This plan provides a good opportunity for younger leaders to learn and give leadership in skills, safety and service to their communities.

OPTIMIST NEWS

Because of an unusually violent storm the dance scheduled for February had to be called off. Now, a new and even better dance is planned to be held tentatively April 23rd at the Pine Beach Recreation Hall. Costs still have to be determined but it is anticipated that the per couple cost will be in the neighbourhood of $6.00.

This will not be a box lunch affair. It is planned to have a smorgasbord type of midnight snack -- assorted cold cuts, sandwiches, etc.

OUR GOOD NEIGHBORS TO THE WEST HAVE THEIR TROUBLES TOO. After all, things are never dull on the Lakeshore. Just this week, one of the Pointe Claire school buses caught fire at Carleton Avenue, but fortunately, the bus had unloaded its precious cargo of kiddies and the blaze was quickly doused by alert action on the part of Pointe Claire fire squads. Above, we see the fire and ladder men doing their good work. Landseer Photo.

AN IMPORTANT FIRST STEP

The welcome news comes to hand that work is about to commence on a reinforced concrete subway at the controversial 55th Avenue level crossing in Lachine. And so, at last a start is being made toward the cancelling-out of eight level crossings in that area.

Apart from the level crossing hazard — an ever-present one — motor traffic will be speeded up, with none of the inconspicuously long and irritating waits for mile-long freight trains to go by.

Both the Board of Transport Commissioners and the railways are to be congratulated for finally tackling this problem with definite action. Now if similar steps can be taken west of Lachine, particularly in the Dorval area, at Sources Road for example, many more lives will be saved and the cause of public safety enhanced.

The Night Desk

with Paul McKenna Davis

A news story tells of one Signor Perini, a pretty fair operatic tenor and a stranger in our midst, who took a stroll one night along dimly lighted Stanley St. It's not known whether or not the singer was humming a few vagrant bars of La Traviata while perambulating, but it is evident that Signor Perini must have been a first-time visitor to these shores. For no one, even armed to the teeth, would air his valuable tonils in the shadows of Montreal's uptown tenderloin.

Perini, the story says, was suddenly belted between the cadenza and the coda by two playful thugs who lay in ambush in one of the presido's doorways, and before he could call for help in F. sharp the twain gave the tenor a terrific going-over and relieved him of several thousand lire — about $4.65 in case of the realm.

That the singer was beaten and robbed supplies only a minor motive for such inhospitable treatment. This comes in more interested in whether or not either of the footpads was musically inclined.

If Signor Perini was humming out of tune — an occupational failing with most tenors — the Stanley St. storm troopers would have a good defence if ever brought to justice. If, on the other hand, the tenor's rendition of the aria was bell clear and in perfect pitch, then the lash in none too good for the tin-eared bandits; for a tenor who sings in tune is as rare as a perfect mother-in-law, and should be allowed to roam and waddle where he wishes.

Not ever having heard Perini sing, I can't sit in judgment, but the incident does present food for speculation on what might happen to some of our currently popular vocalists if music lovers ever took the law into their own hands. There is precedent for such speculation.

More than 20 years ago, Mr. Rudy Vallee was crooning through his outsize megaphone at a "concert" from Vallee, deep in a nasal first chorus of Yagahond Lover, was suddenly cut off from his chore by a perfectly aimed and very ripe grapefruit thrown by one of the students. The missile hit Mr. Vallee smack dab in the bridgework, and Mr. Vallee was through for the night.

At that, it was later said that the crooner was lucky. The boy with the throwing arm hadn't even made the scrub baseball team at the university, and had only been elected for the assassin's job because Charlie Devens, who later made in New York Yankees and pitched in two world series, was busy studying for exams.

What the Harvard student with an ear for music did to Vallee, and what the Stanley St. bully boys did to Signor Perini are two things that lie many years apart. But such a notion could inaugurate an open season on annoying singers, a legion whose numbers have increased by leaps and bounds ever since tone-deaf Johnny itay gave an inferior coterie of singers courage to tackle the big time.

And with disk jockeys and recording companies working hand in glove to propel the Rays, the Lines, the Presleys, the Crewcuts, the Four Aces and several other bellowing baritones — individually and in group — there's no telling how far this era of musical ignorance can go.

When the gramophone replaced the piano in the home, our children's hopes for acquiring musical integrity went out the window. Kern and Gershwin and rock 'n' roll replaced the lyrical tunes of Gershwin, Kern and Gershwin. Their many fine contemporaries, musical America latched on to a brand of entertainment that required little attention and less knowledge of lyrics combined with melody line. You wouldn't have to take a Roth mery course to remember the lyrics of Goodnight Irene or Rock, Rock, Rock. It's time the vigilantes got to work.

My suggestion is that everyone with a hair trigger ear be supplied with a hunting license and that a bounty be paid to anyone bringing in the scalps of most of the present day singers.

People like Crosby, Sinatra, Dick Haynes and Clark Dennis would naturally remain under state protection, but the price on Elvis Presley, for example, would be equivalent to the honors accorded Dr. Salk, and the reward for bagging the Four Aces, a retirement annuity plus the George Medal. The award would be slightly smaller if the hunter bagged the Three Deuces. As they are a trio, they sing only 75 per cent as badly as the Four Aces.

Legalized murder? Well, not exactly. Any music lover could claim everything from patriotism to self-defence and it's just a matter of getting a smart lawyer and a sympathetic judge who knows middle C from a dominant seventh.

It would be interesting to know if the Perini assassins were ever caught and asked for an explanation. If either passed to tonal test, then the open season on singers should be declared at once.

Reports From Ottawa

Last week I quoted the opinions of a religious leader on the question of honesty in the world, in general, and in advertising, in particular. Another article, written by an even brought to my attention, leader, Bishop Fulton J. Sheen, has been brought to my attention, dealing with the same subject, and I think it makes equally interesting reading. The article, in its entirety, is as follows:

"HONESTY SEEMS LOST IN WORLD"

"Grandfathers, when they finish-stopping the razor, used to take a hair in the fingers, and cut it with one blow of the razor to see if it was sharp. Would grandfather ever have taken an emory board or sandpaper, lathered it, and then shaved the sandpaper? Would any doctor in a medical school, describe the stomach in terms of a trap-door through which a certain brand of aspirin slid to hurry into the blood stream, while all other brands of aspirin were so long in coming down, that the trap-door got rusty? Would a dentist put toothpaste on a tooth and then hit it with a hammer or a baseball, to show that the force of the blow never reaches the tooth because his toothpaste has in it K. 57V2923, along with hecthydrochloripitamine? Does any doctor in the world know a pill that will stop the brain hammers from beating the medulla oblongata to pieces, or that will arrest the flashes of lightning in the brain fibres, or that will stop radio waves in the mind from creating static?"

"Now contrast this with another phenomenon of the American scene: the reaction of an audience to a prize fight. Here honesty and fair play are at a peak. Let one boxer even accidentally hit another with his back or a baseball, or deliver a blow only suspiciously below the belt, and a roar of "boos," like a mighty ocean, executes judgment on want of fair play. Let a boxer give a punch as the referee separates a clinch, and then put out his gloves to touch those of the other boxer in apology, and applause will thunder for his honesty, sportsmanship and equity.

"A disc jockey who takes a bribe to make rock and roll popular or someone who takes money under false pretenses of learning will be defended in dishonesty, while a baseball player who does it will be excluded from sports for life. It would, therefore, seem that honesty is expected in sports, but not in advertising, or certain shady kinds of business. In a declining civilization, certain virtues linger in one group more than in others, just as in the decaying Roman civilization, integrity and nobility of character remained in the soldiers and centurions long after it had disappeared from public officials of the Forum. It was of such sunset days that Shakespeare said: 'To be honest, as this world goes, is to be one man picked out of ten thousand.'

"Honesty disappears with the decline of belief that each man must render an account of his stewardship. This makes a great difference in the way men dispose of their goods at death. In the days of faith there were evil and wicked men, just as there are now; but in those days, men knew they were wicked. Hence, when the time came to 'shuffle off the mortal coil' they made provisions to give their wealth to religious causes in order to make reparations for their offenses. This practice has gone into decline today. The modern man does not believe he has ever done wrong, or that he has sins to expiate, or any dishonesty to atone for. Hence, if he leaves his money for public causes, it is in order to glorify his own name.

"Honesty is not just something we owe to our neighbor; it is something we owe to ourselves. Each man has an account to settle with himself. It is quite possible that certain dishonest deeds will never be known by men; but there is one man who will always know about them — and that is he who commits them."

International assistance of the Women's Work Committee of the Canadian Red Cross totalled $147,582 last year. This represents only the cost of materials and does not include the time of the volunteer workers, warehousing, shipping and other expenses.

IN FOCUS

By K. M.

It was "Mr. Chairman, Gentlemen, and Madam" again this year for Mrs. Godbeer, the only lady, with fifty men attending a Province of Quebec Safety League meeting and luncheon during their recent annual convention. (Mrs. Godbeer was the only lady present last year at a provincial Highway Safety Committee Convention - with 300 men.) Mrs. Godbeer, Chairman of the Dorval Safety Council, seems to be waging a one woman campaign in her efforts to get some women interested in doing executive work for safety on the provincial level. She had more support at the evening dinner meeting of the Quebec Safety League at the Mount Royal when the Dorval Safety Council members were present to receive one of the few provincial awards for local safety council work.

And by the way, with Spring comes the Bicycle. This is a reminder of the important work the Safety Council is doing in its Bicycle Testing Programme. Two Schools had no representatives at all at the last meeting called to discuss the program.

One of the first harbingers of spring in Dorval is the annual St. Patrick's Day Tea sponsored by the Catholic Women's League. This event has become a real tradition in Dorval. Originating as a fund raising event for the library project of the C.W.L., the St. Patrick's Day Tea now contributing to the building fund of St. Veronica's Parish.

With the Irish theme always coming through beautifully in flowers and silver, and decorations in just the right shade of green - there are behind the scene stories which could be told. A few will always remember the day when two hardworking ladies managed to get two punch bowls (expensive, borrowed, and used strictly for flowers) firmly struck together just a few hours before the guests were to arrive. It took the help of an engineer, who used the technique of the hot and cold water treatment to separate the bowls without breakage, to get them out of that situation - and in time for the flowers to carry out the St. Patrick's theme in the best tradition. And in keeping with the best traditions, barring impossible situations, it will be Tea on St. Patrick's Day at St. Veronica's.

Little Leaguers and other Dorvalites were saddened last week to hear of the death of Jack (Tex) Kollias, Marel 1, in the U.S.A. "Tex," of the cowboy boots and earnest dedication to baseball, friend of small boys and parents who met to cheer over hard fought games, was a name which passed with swift recognition and sorrow through Dorval schools and homes last week, a name clearly remembered with affection here.

Did you notice the 15th century ladies of the court drawn for the RUMPELSTILTSKIN ad in last week's Reporter. They were the work of Mr. Robert Gourley who is directing the play for presentation by the Lachine Junior Players at Lachine High School, March 26. Mr. Gourley has recently been appointed art teacher for St. Laurent High School. Careful research is showing in the authentic 15th century costumes, and planning with children in mind has gone into the choice of drapery materials and light chiffons which lend shape and grace to these young actors. The forest scenes with "the little men," the village and court scenes will be alive with delightful colour; it will be a production full of spectacle and fun.

Another group working hard at a play - the students from St. Stephen's High School, under the direction of Mrs. Vicki Slipton, preparing a production of "I Remember Mama" for April 8 and 9 at the Centre Paroissial. And the students are really working hard. They are taking responsibility for all facets of production, management, business, stage, costume and lighting.

Mrs. Slipton, who is very active in drama on the lakeshore, says that she is enjoying working with these students because they have shown such wonderful enthusiasm, and seem to be profiting by this new experience. Rehearsals went on as usual on the day of our worst winter storm - and it was the teenagers who made sure that it would. They turned up at Mrs. Slipton's home after she had telephoned to cancel the rehearsal, dug her car out, saw that she got to the practice, and then shovelled her driveway out after rehearsal. With spirit like this at work, the production of "I Remember Mama" should be most successful. Mrs. Slipton chose the play because it has a large cast, charming humour, and situations within the experience range of the younger set.

The $1,000 unanimously voted by the Dorval City Council for the Dorval Civic Library, added to the $1,000 raised by the Telephone bridge loan a good basis for 1960. The workers on the fund raising project spent hours and hours of time on this community effort and deserve high praise for its success. You may wonder why if you notice in a recent report on Dorval Council activities that a motion by Mrs. Ballantyne calling for hiring a librarian at a yearly salary of $600, failed to get a second. Mrs. Ballantyne pointed out that the reason this motion was not passed was because this expenditure was not in the budget. The plan at the moment is to consider, when the budget is revised in July, an additional grant to the library which would allow the library to pay its acting librarian. Mrs. Ballantyne felt that such a move would meet with the full approval of the council, and was emphatic when she said that the budget limitation were the only factors involved in the present decision.

Eighteen weeks is a long time away from home, especially if you are in hospital, and Mrs. C. Prode, (Suzie) received no many letters, cards, and gifts when she was in St. Francis Hospital in South Falls after a car accident, that modesty prevents her from telling how many. Enough let us say to rate a special thank you to her friends and acquaintances in Dorval who shortened the weeks with their thoughtfulness!

DORVAL Sports on Parade

by GABY FILIATRAULT

The Dorval Recreation Association has announced that the Hockey Award Night to take place on March 18th at the St. Louis Marie School has been postponed to a later date. With teams still in competition, there is not enough time to properly organize the Award Night. The date hasn't been set yet.

It seems that every time we mentioned names as outstanding players in such play-off games, that the first thing you know the same person suffered a let-down or their team was eliminated, so from now on until the championship teams are known we will not mention any players names, but you can be sure that we will catch up afterwards. So this week, St. Louis Marie Bantams being eliminated we would like to talk to you about a little boy on that team who did more than his share for the success of the team. He finished first in the scoring list for the team and the league, and pound for pound is our choice for the best hockey player of the season in minor circles. His play has been a real delight for all hockey lovers, always playing for the success of the team first. Many were the times that, even in good scoring position himself he preferred to pass the puck, and his defensive play has always been outstanding. Every time that boy had the puck he was a threat to the opposing team. You should by now have recognized little No. 7, Norman Laurin.

There were many outstanding players on that team; R. Hobert, C. Tremblay, P. Labelle, and little goalie M. Lesperance, B. Bellemare and many others, but Norman Laurin was a little of all of them combined. We would also like to offer our congratulations to Brother Paul Omer for his great success with the boys. Brother Paul Omer, with us for only two years, has produced two championship teams so far and we can only hope that his stay will be long and prove as successful again.

Strathmore Midgets should start their district final play-off over the weekend. The long rest may have done them some good but on the other hand it may not be so good. When a team gets a long rest, often means a let down and the first game coming up is sometimes a bad one. Let's hope that the boys will benefit from the holiday.

If we are pessimistic this week, we have many reasons. First the team that we and all Dorval sportsmen thought a sure champion winner, the St. Louis Marie Bantams suffered their first loss in 21 regular and play-off games against Verdun Sportif, last Tuesday at the Verdun Arena. It was a 7 to 2 defeat, but the score doesn't give a good picture of the game.

The boys played against a team considered by all as a midget size team. On that side of the picture all fans can be sure that the Verdun players were all eligible. Any doubt on some of their players was checked and double-checked. It may seem unbelievable that such big boys could all be on one team only but it happens that this year Verdun managed to have all players on that team in the category of super-bantams. Two lucky goals at the beginning, when the puck deflected in our goals from the skates and legs of our defenses, didn't help any, and Verdun boys playing a position game didn't give one chance to Dorval to get that famous passing play of their's organized. But Dorval doesn't have to be ashamed of that defeat, the first in 21 games, all played in the short time of eight weeks, and it seemed to many that the boys were tired out.

We should be able to give you next week the final results of the play-off games. There is a lot of misunderstanding going in the Q. M. H. A. play-offs. Nobody seems to know where the games are to be played and very often if the manager doesn't telephone the officials, he will not know that his team is to play at such and such a place, and all the arguments and wrong interpretations of the rules by some officials don't help any in making things easier.

THE COOKE-TOLEDO MOTORS SPONSORS GOT A REAL RUN FOR THEIR MONEY this season when they sponsored a fine Pee-Wee team, providing sweaters and all sorts of equipment for the kids. AUTHORS and ARTISTS

By Mary Ellen Scott

WHO SAYS IT ISN'T SPRING?

Every morning the red buds on the maple outside our bedroom window are larger and redder; through the heavy frost on the glass of a conservatory at St. John's Road and the Lakeshore can be seen a matchless display of daffodils, hyacinths and crocuses. The Scotts opened the picknick season on the golf course at Hudson Heights on Sunday. No need to climb forbidden fences (this time of year; the snow is higher they say). And you'd be surprised how jolly it is to cook over the flickering blue flame of a Coleman, with a thick tarpaulin between you and the six feet of snow beneath your behind. Fun too, to roll down a snowy hill, and look up into the soft blue of a March sky. Even nicer to crawl into the comparative warmth of your cold road afterward! You'd certainly be surprised. So -- would -- !!

RUMPELSTILTSKIN'S ON THE MOVE

He's the one to surely prove, 'Tis the season to be gay, TAKE YOUR OFFSPRING TO THE PLAY!

In actual fact these are sketches of the costume to be worn by Rumpelstiltskin and his little brothers. They are of heavy drapery material in rich autumn colours, and the darts (scallops to us) are lined with brilliant contrasting satin. When the little men frolic and turn handsprings their garments will flash colour just as their mischievous personalities will flash across the footlights to you.

For this is no ordinary children's play. Please do not mistake me. It may not be letter-perfect, though we hope it will be. Somewhere may even fall off the stage in his eagerness to please. But a concerted effort is being made by the Junior Players to present a drama, a suspenseful, exciting play which will hold your attention from beginning to end. Secondly, there has been thoughtful, artistic overall planning of costumes. With due consideration of the mothers' pocketbooks, a basic costume for the whole caste was chosen, a costume every child was sure to warm already -- a black or navy sweater and navy tights. To this basic costume will be added the appropriate tunic, skirt or headpiece to the character in question. Again, research has been done so that all additions are of one period, the fifteenth century, the fairy-tale period of English History. The pagenetry of richly coloured fabrics, the flash of precious stones, the mystery of other-worldly creatures delight the child in all of us, and you will find them aplenty in RUMPELSTILTSKIN.

It is always exciting to participate in a new beginning. You will be "assisting," as the French say, at the beginning of good children's theatre on the Lakeshore when you come to see Rumpelstiltskin. There are some very talented people connected with the Lachine Junior Players. Mr. Robert Courley, their director this week won the Montreal-Ottawa Conference Drama Festival at Cornwall, Ontario, with The Red and Yellow Ark which has already won the top award in Montreal. Edith Marchant the Author of the play is well known as a director with standards of excellence in The Drama Society, Cedar Park.

Among the parents of the exceptional children who will act in the play are several who are active participants in the field of art and letters. Tickets are still available for the performance, March 26, at 2:30 p.m. Lachine High School Auditorium. Get yours today!

COME AND SEE --

THE IMPORTANCE OF BEING EARNEST ---

As we go to press M.J.T.'s production of Oscar Wilde's great comedy-verse will be into its third night. Eleanor Stuart, a professional actress of no small accomplishment and a teacher of drama here and in Toronto will play the part of Lady Bracknell. Leo Ciceri who has already distinguished himself this season as Hamlet will play Ernest. Kay Tremblay who did such a competent job in The Great Sebastians will play Miss Prism.

REGISTRATIONS, NOW FOR Y.W.C.A. COURSES

Registration for spring term activities at the Montreal Y. W. C. A., 1355 Dorchester St. West, begins Monday, March 7th. Mothers of children between the ages of 3 and 5 years inclusive may leave their children in our supervised nursery while mother takes golf lessons each Thursday morning for 8 weeks. For those who prefer evening classes there are several to choose from on Monday, Wednesday or Friday evening. For fishermen and fishermen, classes in fly fishing and spinning will be given on Thursday evenings.

There will also be a course given in the art of flower and greenery arrangement.

An opportunity to become a qualified life guard is presented without charge to those who are able to pass the try-out. This should be a special interest to those people planning to be camp counsellors during the coming summer. In addition, regular swimming instruction is offered; also indoor tennis lessons are available.
