CANCER....Friend of Foe?

So I'm sure the topic of today's blog is sure to get some of you all revved up either to embrace or chastise me for what I believe when it comes to cancer.

We all know someone who has succumb to cancer. I lost my father to cancer at the age of 52 which struck a chord in my heart because of his age and the way he aged in the 4 years of being diagnosed.

I believe the reason cancer has gotten so out of control is because we have deviated away from nature and the respect for her laws. Nature's command must be obeyed. The sad thing is that most of us do not know what that means. We have disconnected ourselves from nature and life, the way it was intended to be fulfilled.

You are probably asking yourself why would I describe cancer as friend or foe? Well what you don't understand is that no one really dies from cancer. That's right, I was kind of stunned myself after the death of my father. What ultimately drives death is becoming immunosuppressive. Things like liver failure, kidney failure, pneumonia...42-46% of patients that have cancer will die from the wasting away of protein and lean body mass. That leaves 54-58% of people that didn't die of muscle wasting. The rest of them died from the treatment.

So what is Cancer anyway?

Cancer is abnormal cell growth that has managed to escape biological control. This is a regulatory system that is designed to control cellular suicidal process called programmed cellular death (apoptosis); that other cells in the body are normally subjected to. This genetic program that regulates the death/life cycle has been damaged so now cancer cells are dividing indefinitely and worst yet, they do not stay in one spot. They love to move around and metastasize. 9 out of 10 people die from metastatic function and not cancer itself. Cancer is immortal! Cancer never dies!

Their line of defense – Chemotherapy...

So let's talk about that. Anyone want to know how chemotherapy was discovered? In the 1940's in Italy when the nitrogen mustard gas was dropped. The post mortem autopsy showed that the lymphocytes of the immune system had dropped significantly. They jumped all over that and used the same mustard gas for those with Leukemia to kill the cancer cells, remember as mentioned above that cancer never dies. The biggest problem with chemotherapy is that it destroys and kills healthy cells of the body, damaging the internal organs making the recovery from cancer almost impossible. The protocol to treat cancer are actually cancer causing chemicals. We are generating more cancer. What else does chemotherapy do? Well it stimulates cancer stem cells. Stem cells are cells that haven't decided what they want to be yet. They have the ability to be any cell they choose of any organ in the body. If you damage the DNA of a stem cell through free radical production, it becomes immortal producing more and more cells, billions of cells which then become cancer. It's the stem cell generating all these cells just pouring it out as if you have left the faucet running for months if not years. Chemotherapy has absolutely no effect on the stem cell; they only kill the daughter cells that are produced by the stem cell. Yes the tumor shrinks but then it comes back and it comes back more aggressive. How many times have we heard that before?

Does this make sense?

Let's look at some other statistics:

18% of all cancers are caused by an infection.

25% of all cancers are related to obesity.

Environmental influence is a whopping 41%

That's 84% that we have the ability to control.

Do you think we have a chance here people??

The remaining 16% is unknown possibly genetic factors.

The medical approach to cancer is a deception. It is an unethical, deceptive business brainwashing society when it's nothing more than a fraud!

Here's one for you: did you know that oncologists get a kickback when prescribing drugs? They get a 6% reimbursement. Isn't that nice? You get paid to kill people. Drug companies have poured over a billion dollars into natural substances such as turmeric, resveratrol and green tea and found that these substances are more powerful than chemotherapy. The problem is you cannot patent nature, but you sure can patent a drug.

This article is not to offend any one's belief system on what they perceive to be the truth, but a very in depth look at the hidden truth they don't want you to see.
