CATALOGUE THIRTY-SIX

Winter 2013

My Dog Lala

by ROMAN R. KENT

*In memory of my beloved Lala,
a true, loyal and loving friend who stayed with us to the very end.*

The author, Roman Kent arrived in the U.S. with his brother, as orphans having survived the horrors of The Holocaust in Poland. Among other positions, he is the Chairman of The American Gathering of Holocaust Survivors and Treasurer of the Conference of Jewish Material Claims Against Germany. His brother is a neurosurgeon.

The contributions of Holocaust Survivors are enormous. The lost potential of the six million murdered Jews is unimaginable.

11. And I Stil See Their Faces : Images of Polish Jews. The book is based on an exhibition. Many of the photographs in this book were donated by non-jews currently living in Poland and Jews of Polish origin from all over the world. Jewish life in Poland from the end of the last century to the Holocaust, with all its intimacies, dignity, pride and then horror, is arrayed in an exhibit of faded photographs culled from family albums, shoe boxes, and attics. At home and abroad, the photos depict assimilated, observant, modern and traditional Jews, rich and poor, all creating an exuberant and forceful world now lost. Some sent in photos in the hope that a face would be recognized and that perhaps a friend had survived the roundups, the executions and the death camps. A unique photo collection of great documental, historical and artistic value. The pictures published for the first time are accompanied by fragments of authentic letters or conversations showing their origin. One photograph was carried by a daughter of her mother through two selections by Dr. Mengele at Auschwitz, once she held it in her mouth, the second time she taped it with a band-aid to the bottom of her foot, she was 14 years old at the time. She later found out that her parents, sister and brother were shot to death attempting to avoid deportation to Auschwitz. Also includes never before seen photos of Lodz Ghetto and round ups for deportation. The book is magnificent, unique, moving and most important. Shalom Foundation, Warsaw. 1996.
