ASCE NOVEMBER DINNER MEETING NOTICE

Program: Elements of a Landslide Warning System

Elements of a landslide warning system (LWS) for a 40-foot-high cut slope on Kalaniana'ole Highway will be presented. The LWS was developed by performing a soil investigation, conducting laboratory tests, installing monitoring instruments, developing and calibrating a transient hydrological flow model, using the calibrated model to predict soil suction during a design storm, inputting these suction predictions into a slope stability analysis, establishing threshold values for the monitoring instrument sand proposing appropriate plans of action should the threshold values be reached. A template for future landslide warning systems will be presented. Project funded by Hawaii State DOT.
