About CAHD’s 2019 Third Quarterly Report and Newsletter

Central Avenue Historic Business Improvement District (CAHD) is pleased to present its 2019 Third Quarterly Report and Newsletter to each property owner in our property-based assessment district.

For this quarter, we designed the required newsletter as the Historic Central Avenue District Visitor’s Guide and Business Directory so that it can also be shared with patrons to encourage them to explore and visit business within the District. It includes a district map and a map of the historic and culturally significant monuments that attract many people to the district every year. 10,000 copies of the publication will be printed and distributed to visitors during the holiday season.

We ask that the business encourage their patrons to check out the other businesses on the corridor. It helps to recycle dollars and increase the viability of the District.

The Vision: In recognition and appreciation of the important history, rich culture, and diverse businesses, residents and visitors in the Central Avenue Historic District, the stakeholders envision a thriving, healthy and attractive business and residential district that supports and sustains the kind of neighborhood everyone wants to do business in, live in and visit: clean, safe, bustling with commerce and positive community interaction; a cultural treasure, an attractive destination, and a place where young people can grow up safe and strong, where businesses can prosper, and where we honor the past, invest in the present, and manifest a bright and beautiful future.

The Mission: Through mutual cooperation, forward thinking, and timely action, the stakeholders of the Central Avenue Historic District are committed to investing in ongoing thoughtful improvement and development of the neighborhood; and initiatives that promote and sustain cleanliness, safety, aesthetic beauty and continuity, cultural richness and diversity, environmental health, and an overall atmosphere of well-being that is inclusive and invites prosperity, community involvement, and positive interaction among all peoples.

You can find the full set of bylaws and other organizational documents and report on the website.

What is a Business Improvement District? A business improvement district is a geographically defined area within the City of Los Angeles, in which services, activities and programs are paid for through a special assessment which is charged to all members within the district in order to equitably distribute the benefits received and the costs incurred to provide the agreed-upon services, activities and programs. The assessment money is collected by the City or by the County through a special contractual arrangement with the city. Because the assessment funds collected in a given district cannot legally be spent outside of that BID, the City creates a trust fund for each BID, with funds periodically released to support operations.

African American Firefighter Museum
The first of its kind in the nation when it opened in 1997, the museum features photos of pioneering firefighters, paintings, and examples of vintage equipment. African Americans had limited opportunities for advancement and placement in the Fire Department; in the 1920s, they were relegated to the segregated stations 30 and 14 (at 3401 South Central Avenue). It took decades, but eventually, the department became integrated.

Coca-Cola Bottling Company
The Coca-Cola Building is a historic landmark in many ways. The building design is strongly reminiscent of an early 20th-century ocean liner. The architect Robert V Derrah created a single structure with a soothing, streamlined form, completed with hatch cover and portholes and surrounded by a flying bridge. There are also two giant Coke bottle replicas flanking the building. This site was once the Company headquarters.

Lincoln Theatre (Now Iglesia de Jesucristo Judá)
Opened in 1927, this 2,100-seat theatre adorned with Moorish Revival architecture, 25-foot-wide marquee, big stage, and orchestra pit garnered the nickname “West Coast Apollo” because it presented many of the same stellar acts that played New York’s famed Apollo. Until the early 1960s, the Lincoln offered motion pictures, stage shows, talent shows, and vaudeville, especially for African Americans, who were barred from downtown Los Angeles entertainment palaces or relegated to “colored only” seating. Thus, major performers Count Basie, Lionel Hampton, Duke Ellington, Bill “Bo- jangles” Robinson, Nat “King” Cole, Billie Holiday, Sammy Davis Jr., B.B. King - graced the Lincoln.

Second Baptist Church
Among the most influential of the City of Los Angeles’ African American faith institutions, Second Baptist Church has been a leader in both spirituality and civil rights activism. Established in 1885 in a room over a stable in downtown Los Angeles, the church grew as the Great Migration brought African Americans from Louisiana, Texas, and Arkansas. Second Baptist has also built two complexes of federally subsidized housing for seniors, Griffith Gardens and Kilgore Manor. Second Baptist has been an important force in the Civil Rights Movement, hosting national conventions of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored Persons (NAACP) in 1928, 1942 and 1949 and serving as the site of important speeches by Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., Malcolm X and many others.

Liberty Savings & Loan (Now the People’s Union Retail Complex)
In 1924 Liberty Savings and Loan located at 25th and Central, became Los Angeles first African American Saving and Loan and for more than forty years Los Angeles most successful African American lending institution. Multimillion dollar Liberty Savings and Loan founded by Louis M Blodgett, J.A. Shackleford, Frank and Jesse Harvey, A. Hartley Jones, Norman Houston and Dr. Drew Gordon. Liberty Savings and Loan financed homes for African Americans when other Los Angeles lending institutions would not consider financing home loans in the Black community.

Historic Golden State Life Insurance (Now Dunbar Village)
Founded in 1925, Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Company made history as one of the first African American-owned insurance companies established in the American West and was central in the development of African American-owned businesses throughout the U.S. In 1928, to accommodate its growing workforce and business, the firm secured a lot and commissioned its first headquarters at 4261 South Central.

By 1945, Golden State was the largest black-owned business of any type west of the Mississippi River and the nation’s seventh-largest African American-owned insurance company. In 1949, the company moved its headquarters to Adams Boulevard and Western Avenue in the West Adams district.
The Bowers Retail Complex
The Bowers Retail Complex, originally established in 1950 in the Westlake district near Downtown LA, arrived on Central Avenue in 1964. The remodeled Bowers Retail Complex now includes the Bowers and Sons Cleaners and Laundry as well as a dentist, a boutique women's clothing store, a computer repair shop, a tattoo supply store and a variety discount store. The Bowers Retail Complex was the vision of Horace and Alice Bowers.

Angelus Funeral Home (Now Paul R. Williams Apartments)
Originally a triangular-shaped plot in 1934, owners L.G. Robinson, Lorenzo Bowdin and John L. Hill Sr. presented the site to famed Black architect Paul Revere Williams who designed a beautiful Spanish Colonial Revival/Georgian Revival style building, complete with a grand chapel and sitting room. In April 2019, Hollywood Community Housing Corporation completed the historic adaptive re-use of the property for multi-family affordable housing.

Elks Hall
(Now the Masjid Bilal Islamic Center & Center for Advanced Learning)
The Elks Hall made the move to 4016 South Central and became a popular music and dance venue in the early 20th century. Elks Hall featured a first-floor ballroom that could hold over 2,000 people and was said to be the largest African-American owned building in Los Angeles. The location is now the home of the Masjid Bilal Islamic Center, established in the 1950s as Muhammad's Temple of Islam, No. 27. The faith community bought the historic Elks Hall in 1973 and remodeled it. Masjid Bilal became the first large mainstream Islamic community in Los Angeles.

Dr. Ralph J. Bunche House
Listed on the National Register of Historic Places and the City of Los Angeles Historic-Cultural Monument Landmarks #159, this is the restored family home of Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, his sister Grace and grandmother, Ms. Lucy Taylor Johnson. Dr. Bunche was the graduating valedictorian at Thomas Jefferson High School, a trained political scientist at UCLA and the first Nobel Peace Prize Winner of color in any country.

The Dunbar Hotel (Now Part of Dunbar Village Affordable Housing)
Originally opened as the Somerville Hotel in 1928, the Dunbar Hotel is named after notable poet Paul Laurence Dunbar. It hosted the first west coast meeting of the NAACP and was the preferred place of leisure and hospitality for African Americans: from workers like the Pullman porters to luminaries like Joe Louis, Langston Hughes, Thurgood Marshall, Ella Fitzgerald, Lena Horne, Count Basie, Louis Armstrong, Duke Ellington, Billie Holiday, when most fine hotels and restaurants declined to serve them.

28th Street YMCA (Now 28th Street Apartments for Homeless Youth)
The 28th Street YMCA was listed as a Los Angeles Historic-Cultural Monument in 2006 and put on the National Register of Historic Places in 2009. The building was designed by noted African American architect Paul R. Williams in the Spanish Colonial Revival style. The building is considered to be historically significant because of its association with Paul R. Williams and because it is one of two club buildings remaining in Los Angeles that were founded by and for African Americans. Many recreational facilities, including public swimming pools, were racially segregated in the 1920s, and the 28th Street YMCA provided a gymnasium, swimming pool, and 52 dormitory rooms on the upper floors.

Thomas Jefferson High School
Jefferson High, founded in 1914 as “Home of the Democrats”, is a historic landmark from its architecture to its notable alumni: Dorothy Dandridge, Ralph J. Bunche, Barry White, Alvin Ailey, Stanley Crouch, Iwao Takamoto and John Meehan.

27th Street Bakery Shop

Founded in the 1930’s by Harry Patterson and his wife, the 27th Street Bakery Shop started out as a restaurant before being converted to a full-time bakery in 1956. The 27th Street Bakery is known for their famous sweet potato pies that have become a staple on the dining tables of Los Angeles residents. Having grown to the largest manufacturer of sweet potato pies on the west coast, all of the pies, cakes and sweets still taste like a slice of “mama’s” home cooking.

The 27th Street Bakery Shop is a Los Angeles landmark and a true shining star among the Central Avenue family of businesses.

On a sweltering Thursday afternoon in July, Vivian walks into the Cleaners with total command of the operations and what’s happening in every step of the immense activity in the store. Customers are coming in and out, first timers, young and old, not all truly understanding the history and legacy of the space they walked into. They simply came in to get a garment cleaned or a stain removed. Each customer is greeted with a loving and warm smile. Each interaction is a new beginning, yet a continuation of a legacy rich in the community, and within the Bowers’ family, for over 65 years!

Bowers and Sons Cleaners provides affordable, quality and convenient services to the neighborhood and surrounding areas. They pride themselves on delivering professional, high quality service at affordable prices. I feel extremely thankful to have sat down with this awesome person and living legacy within our community.

Vivian has been at the helm of the business for the last 25 years. She is amazed at how much the business and neighborhood has evolved since 1994. She reflected on how she has spent most of her life at the cleaners. “You worked here as a kid, you studied here, and you played here”. Here are some of the fun Q&A:

How has the neighborhood changed since you started?
The neighborhood has rebounded tremendously. In 1994 the neighborhood was at a low, but never gave up (2 years post Rodney King). Our neighborhood had become blighted.riddled with gang violence(drive-by shooting) drugs and prostitution. The neighborhood was riddled with drugs and violence. The first thought Vivian had after coming back to lead the business was to question whether “we should be here?” she decided by remembering that this was where she needed to be. Instead of forting themselves in with bars and bullet proof glass, we decided to be led by faith and remembered her family has survived through riots and tough times before. Vivian is so thankful the neighborhood supported the family and watched over her and the establishment then and now.

What keeps you going and motivated?
I’m thankful to provide a service that makes people happy and helps keep them well dressed. The family legacy and love for dry cleaning also keeps me going. It’s not very glamorous and you don’t make a lot of money; however, it’s gratifying to know we’ve helped the neighborhood through services, employment and community involvement. You can tell her love for the community is genuine. The Bowers cleaners understands the importance of offering a cleaning service in a community where it is historically absent of services.

What do you hope to see for the Bower’s future?
I would love to see the legacy continue. Hopefully one of my children or nephews will step into my shoes. I’ve come to realize, that selling isn’t an option. Not everyone is committed to the high level of excellence and service given with “a Personal Touch” that our family has provided Since 1950. We have phenomenal staff which I am grooming to assist us (my husband Greg Cowan) to carry on (not so hands on) until the next generation steps in to continue our 70 Year legacy. We only believe in hiring from within community.

What can we do to drive more traffic to the area and grow as individual business owners?
There are many of great businesses here. We have to highlight the strong businesses in the neighborhood more. As business owners we have to continually educate ourselves, evolve with the business industry trends, and evolve business operations. Offer delivery service and make yourself convenient for customers. We need to brighter our look, keep stores fresh and more inviting. Business owners need to become more tech savvy (own a POS system, accept credit cards and use social media). Focus on customer services! It is the most important component. Grow, beautify and protect our community while keeping more money in our community. Welcome people like they are family coming to visit. Offering a high-quality product – and striving to be the best at whatever service your offer. People will notice your hard work!

This business has been Family-owned and operated for three generations. That isn’t just a blank statement, it truly is a family operation down the generation. I met the 5th generation of Bowers during the interview. They pride themselves on delivering professional, high quality service at affordable prices. I feel extremely thankful to have sat down with this awesome person and living legacy within our community.

Have a Taste of Central Today!
The Central-Quincy Green Alley Network project is a partnership of The Trust for Public Land, LA Sanitation and Environment, and Councilmember Curren D. Price Jr. The project is a multiple-benefit urban greening effort that will transform currently derelict alleys in a dense community challenged by park poverty, into community assets that will yield environmental and public health benefits. These benefits include the capture and cleaning of polluted stormwater and using it to recharge the underlying aquifer; a reduced urban heat island effect; safe and increased walking and biking opportunities; new opportunities for outdoor play, recreation, and social interaction; and, the installation of drought-tolerant climbing vines and fruit trees to create edible landscaping where there is currently no habitat, shade, or green space.

Project improvements for both networks will include the installation of high albedo pavement, signage, lights, street planting, public art and elements to make a safe environment for pedestrians, bicyclists and vehicles. Stormwater best management practices (BMPs) will include permeable pavement, street tree plantings, infiltration trenches, a dry well system, infiltration planters, trash capture systems, and the planting of vines, shrubs and grasses within the alleys. These BMPs will mimic natural systems by slowing stormwater velocities, capturing the water before it flows off-site, and reintroducing it into the groundwater. The proposed BMPs will reduce pressure on the existing storm drain system and contribute to the reduction of pollutant loading into the Ballona Creek and Los Angeles River.

The project is a result of a large community outreach effort as well as robust planning work initiated by the City of LA – LA Sanitation and Environment, and the Trust for Public Land in 2014 for the creation of the “South LA Green Alley Master Plan” – to improve quality of life for local residents and increase climate resilience of the region. The master plan ranks the two networks that make up the Central-Quincy Green Alley Network, Central-Jefferson High network and the Quincy Jones network, as priority projects. Because of their priority and close proximity, the projects will be developed as one project to make the project more cost effective. The project will also serve as an example of scaling up the implementation of the South LA Green Alley Master Plan.

The project by the numbers will:
- Green 3.2 acres of alley way
- Create 1.3 miles of green alleys
- Recharges 4.1 million gallons of stormwater into the ground
- Plant about 60 trees in the green alleys
- Plant 50 trees in the neighborhood surrounding the green alleys
- Create a community-based stewardship group to support community leadership

Community design meetings have started! Please contact Dayana Molina at (323) 574-3127 or dayana.molina@tpl.org for more information.
Huey P. Newton and Bobby Seale formed the Black Panther Party for Self Defense in Oakland, California, in 1966. Spurning civil rights tactics of marches, sit-ins, and boycotts, the Black Panther Party was inspired by the self-determination philosophy of Malcolm X and the "Black Power" speeches of Stokely Carmichael. The Party founded youth centers and free breakfast programs, organized legally-armed patrols to guard against policy brutality in black neighborhoods, and became popular among black urban youth as chapters spread throughout the country. In the 1968-69 school year, the Black Panther Party fed as many as 20,000 children.

Despite their goals of community empowerment and self-help, the Party was condemned by President Lyndon B. Johnson and other national leaders. FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover called the group “the most dangerous threat to the internal security of the country” in the late 1960s. The FBI also launched an aggressive counter-intelligence program aimed at dismantling the Black Panther Party through misinformation, infiltration, and by facilitating violent attacks against the group.

In 1968, as urban riots were spreading across the country in response to police brutality, the Southern California Chapter of the Black Panther Party formed to help combat the growing threat. The Party established monitoring patrols in black neighborhoods and worked to ensure police accountability. On December 8, 1969, the LAPD set out to serve a warrant to search Party headquarters at 41st Street and Central Avenue for stolen weapons. Though the warrant was obtained on the basis of false information provided by the FBI, police used it as the basis to ambush about twelve Party members inside the building.

More than 200 police officers, including the newly militarized Special Weapons and Tactics (SWAT) team descended on the headquarters, armed with 5000 rounds of ammunition, gas masks, a helicopter, a tank, and a military-grade grenade. The Party members inside resisted the raid and surrendered only after holding off police forces for approximately five hours. In the end, three officers and six members of the Black Panther Party were wounded during this attack.

In 1976, five years after the FBI’s counter-intelligence program was shut down, a Senate committee concluded that the bureau’s tactics “were indisputably degrading to a free society” and “gave rise to the risk of death and often disregarded the personal rights and dignity of the victims.”

Central Avenue Historic Business Improvement District (CAHD) is a Property Based Business Improvement District in the City of Los Angeles authorized by the City Clerk to operate for a period of 5 years which commenced January 1, 2016. The District comprises 130 property owners and 188 individually assessed parcels of land totaling 1.56 miles on Central Avenue between the south side of Vernon Avenue and the south side of Washington Boulevard as well as on the side street frontages of the corner properties. CAHD’s goal is to improve the economic vitality for each individually assessed parcel within its District boundaries.

CAHD provides continued improvements in compliance with the City of Los Angeles City Clerk guidelines. Each program is designed to meet the goals of the District to improve safety and cleanliness, increase building occupancy within the District, attract more customers to District businesses, encourage new business development and attract ancillary businesses and services for parcels within the District. For the 2016 to 2020 operating years, CAHD is providing programs and activities including:

- Clean Streets Services,
- Safety Ambassadors,
- Parking Demand Management Services,
- Branding and Marketing, and
- Business and Consumer Engagement Events

The Clean Streets Team is managed by CRCD Enterprises, Inc. The team provides daily sidewalk and gutter cleaning, graffiti removal and trash removal. Sidewalk power washing is scheduled monthly and bulky item pick-up services are by appointment. District property and business owners can call CRCD Enterprises direct @ (213) 743-6193 ext 400, Monday - Saturday, for bulky item pick-up service and to report needed sidewalk cleaning, graffiti removal or trash receptacle maintenance.

Our Ambassador Team is managed by Concerned Citizens of South Los Angeles. The Ambassadors (Better Known as "The Green Shirts") are on the corridor 7 days per week to welcome visitors, share information about district businesses and events and report incidents to the Los Angeles Police Department and other public service agencies. Our Ambassadors also meet and greet visitors at our 25 WiFi Hot-Spots and bistro seating areas installed at businesses throughout the District. They provide assistance helping visitors log on to the WiFi and posting information about their experience on Central Avenue. Please feel free to contact Ambassador Supervisor Marlan (323) 846-2500 if Ambassador assistance is needed.
