APICS Certifications – NEW and IMPROVED! Do you want to know more ... please join us for a fact filled night of what APICS is doing with CLTD and CPIM certifications

September 2016 Professional Development Meeting

PDM Date: September 22, 2016 @ 7:00pm

PDM Topic: Why come to APICS for Supply Chain education and certification?

PDM Speaker: APICS Hamilton Chapter Board (Presentation & Informal Panel)

PDM Summary: APICS is the leading professional association for supply chain and operations management and the premier provider of research, education and certification programs that elevate supply chain excellence, innovation and resilience.

In 2015, APICS merged with the American Society of Transportation and Logistics (AST&L). AST&L was the premier professional organization for transportation and logistics professionals.

The merger expands, extends and deepens the APICS end-to-end supply chain body of knowledge that fuels global supply chain research, education and certification programs. The merged organization offers unmatched content and subject matter expertise that will enable individuals and organizations to meet key supply chain challenges.

After careful review, a decision was made to replace AST&L's flagship certification, the Certified in Transportation and Logistics with the new CLTD certification. It was an opportunity to expand on the body of knowledge covered by the certification, simplify the program and apply APICS rigorous certification creation process to the new certification.

Additionally, why is the CPIM program changing? There are a number of reasons why APICS is pursuing this reconfiguration ... and we will explain.
