

The Brushstroke

HELLO Artists!

We are now approaching the 60th day of isolation behind our closed front doors. Our restaurants and markets now have 'pick up' and delivery service. All of the creative studios we love and use here in the Woods, remain closed -- but who is counting?

We of the Brushstroke Staff are hoping this finds everyone feeling well and sufficiently sheltered to be able to stay that way. We know many of you have questions that are not being answered. GRF is struggling with how and when to open certain activities and most every studio is asking "when can I pick my stuff up". Answers to these and many other questions will be communicated to you just as soon as information is clarified and received.

Being part of the Art Association means that you have met some wonderful and creative people. Have you reached out? Have you shared what you are currently working on? We have the opportunity and certainly the time to develop 'art buddies' regardless of media or craft choices – this can go a long way to overcome loneliness and keep us inspired and actively creating.

STAY IN AND STAY WELL!
