

Zach Carlton

Zach Carlton brings a wealth of experience and a deep commitment to community service to his role on the Board of Directors for the Project Enlightenment Foundation. As a Commercial Banker at United Bank, Zach uses his financial knowledge to help businesses and individuals reach their financial goals, showing a strong commitment to their success and growth.

Born and raised in North Carolina, Zach's local roots and understanding of the regional market inform his approach to both his professional and philanthropic endeavors. A graduate of High Point University, he has built a distinguished career in commercial banking, marked by his commitment to exceptional client service and innovative financial solutions.

Beyond his professional achievements, Zach and his wife, Barkley, are proud parents to two sons, Wells and Brooks. His passion for early childhood education is evident in his enthusiastic involvement with Project Enlightenment. By serving on the Board of Directors, Zach is dedicated to advancing the foundation's mission to support and enhance early childhood education, ensuring that young learners receive the best possible start in life.

Zach joined the Foundation Board on September 1, 2024.