

Attorney Amy McDougal is licensed in Virginia, DC, Georgia and Tennessee, and is certified by the Society of Corporate Compliance & Ethics as a Corporate Compliance and Ethics Professional. In 2013, she founded CLEAResources, LLC, a corporate resource for mitigation of legal and compliance risks. Ms. McDougal is a Director of the International Association of Independent Corporate Monitors and of the International Cannabis Bar Association whose Ethics Committee she chairs.

Previously Ms. McDougal served as Special Assistant United States Attorney and Judge Advocate General in the United States Air Force. She served during Operation Enduring Freedom and Operation Iraqi Freedom, attaining the rank of Major. She graduated from Johns Hopkins University Peabody Conservatory of Music with a bachelor's degree in flute performance and received her Doctor of Jurisprudence degree from Vanderbilt Law School.