

Access control systems are the first line of defense, internal and external

Access control is convenient for everyone, if it's done right

- Campuses receiving Title I funds must be ready to lock down quickly.
- An access control system can take care of that in seconds.
- They can keep the entire campus secure by locking doors on a schedule or controlling them at all times.
- Students can even use one card as their ID, keycard and debit card.

Access control records helped catch a murderer

- Yale student Annie Le was found murdered in a campus building.
- The suspect was identified by his key card, showing he entered the building many times on the day Le went missing.
- The access control data led to his arrest and a 44-year sentence.

From large universities to small two-year colleges

Grinnell College, a smaller institution, fits within the wide spectrum of small to very large campuses that have chosen Millennium Group as their access control solution; including Northwestern University, University of North Carolina, Rashi School and many others. At Millennium Group, we have the ability to supply smaller schools who are controlling three or four doors.

Architectural - Friendly Installation

Many educational institutions are historic buildings with delicate architecture. Millennium Group products are designed to be installed unobtrusively in order to preserve the historical beauty. With our daisy chain wiring system, very few wires are required. Where wires are needed, there are many attractive wiremold options to choose from; nearly making the wires invisible. Many Millennium Group products are designed to stick right on the wall, minimizing the amount of drilling as much as possible.

Increase your protection with Millennium Group

- Millennium software is extremely user-friendly, as operators frequently include campus police rather than IT professionals.
- Completely scalable, with capability for frequent expansion, as many campuses are undergoing construction booms.
- Thanks to its distributed architecture, Millennium access points keep on working normally even if communications with the PC are interrupted.

Because the world does not stand still, we always keep abreast of changes in campus access control laws. We strive to anticipate the evolving needs of our clients, and develop cost effective solutions.

Attract and retain students by providing 24/7 access control

Providing 24/7 campus access control gives students and faculty the protection they need to feel safe and secure. Because students, faculty, and staff members are a university's greatest assets, partnering with an access control provider that understands the importance of control on college campuses is critical. That's why Millennium Group prides itself on being a partner of choice in campus access control. Our experience in the market along with our installation base speaks for itself.

What schools must do to protect themselves

Millenium expert is a feature rich access control system designed to fit a wide range of applications and sites. Its architecture is suited for organizations that wish to maintain a solid access control network using different communication modes. In addition, Millenium expert allows operators to manage their access control system from a standard PC workstation anywhere on their communication network.

When evaluating access control, you must look for...

- Reliable network with distributed intelligence: Doors function normally even if communication is off-line
- Modular expansion; one door or one site at a time
- Economical upgrade from other access control systems
- Adapts to facilities of any size
- Interfaces to most types of readers and cards in the industry
- Interconnects with most communication networks
- ODBC compliant database with easy data export and import
- Increased security between panels with a proprietary communication protocol
- A Company that continues to develop its software features and code with the latest technology
- Millennium Group meets all of the above

With a convenient visit to your campus, we can advise how to best set up access control and meet all campus security laws. Call 800-433-7616 today for a free consultation.
